NOTE WARNED OFFICIALS OF LINDY KIDNAPING PLOT

Today

Mr. Curley and Freshmen
Education's Last Stage
Sympathy for Japan
Probably Not the Kidnaper

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

BOSTON IS FULL of excitement with James M. Curley, nominated for governor by the Democrats, recording his greatest victory. Mr. Curley has been mayor of Boston three times, four years each time. Mr. Hearst's New England newspapers supported Mr. Curley.

Also today young Harvard men return to resume the process of education. More than one thousand young Americans from about 350 American high schools and preparatory schools come as freshmen to start the four-year intellectual marathon, and meet their deans and "advisers," intelligent young men that understand the viewpoint and troubles of modern youth.

The new head of Harvard, President Conant, barely past forty, an extraordinarily interesting and able young man, will talk to the newcomers this evening.

He reminded one young freshman today of the advice of his predecessor, Dr. Lowell, to boys, "Remember that in every race a good start is important."

That is good advice for the young men beginning a college career, and particularly good for college graduates and others that never went to college, beginning their careers in the big world.

Many young men, according to President Conant, let the first month go by without really knowing "what it is all about," and having lost that one month, it is hard to catch up.

In real life, too many go all the way through, not knowing "what it is all about," often because of a poor "start."

The "Harvard Crimson," Harvard's daily newspaper, with O. F. Ingram, '35, as editor of today's issue, in a becomingly solemn editorial, tells freshmen, "you are entering upon the final stage of your education." If that were true, it would be fortunate for those freshmen. Unfortunately, they are entering the infant class of real education. "The final stage of education" doesn't come until you enter the coffin and get the final answer to the important question, "Whither do we go from here?"

Among today's arriving freshmen are John Roosevelt, youngest son of the President, and Randolph Hearst, youngest son of W. R. Hearst. Those young men, arriving with every advantage, including airplanes to carry them, will bear in mind that somewhere, perhaps in one of the cheaper dormitory rooms, with no advantages at all, there

MILL STRIKE IS ORDERED CALLED OFF

By Associated Press

Washington, Sept. 22—The United Textile Workers today ordered an end to the most serious strike in the history of the textile industry, and instructed workers to return to the mills Monday morning.

In the presence of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and other high ranking union officials, Francis J. Gorman, chairman of the strike committee, announced:

"We have now gained every substantial thing that we can gain in this strike. Our strike has torn apart the whole unjust structure of NRA, lifting a load from all labor as well as from ourselves."

By telegram, the strike committee sent the following message to all local unions:

"By unanimous vote of the executive council your heroic strike ends in complete victory as of tonight. Full report will be mailed at once to all local unions. Our triumph is one of the greatest in all labor history and your officers salute you and congratulate you.

Columbus, O., Sept. 22—An Ohio penitentiary convict who tightened the chain of circumstances ensnaring Bruno Hauptmann in the Lindbergh kidnaping case late today asserted he had talked persoally with Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, father of the baby, and had submitted to him a plan whereby he had hoped to recover the child.

By Associated Press

New York, Sept. 22—Henry Uhlig, 28, friend of Isadore Fisch, the man Bruno Richard Hauptmann said entrusted the Lindbergh ransom to him, was taken to the Greenwich street police station today for questioning.

Mrs. Hauptmann and her relatives had said that Uhlig was the man who sailed for Europe last November with Fisch. Police also said that Uhlig sailed with Fisch.

By International News Service

Columbus, O., Sept. 22—Startling disclosure that a prisoner in Ohio penitentiary here had received a code letter from Bruno Richard Hauptmann, held in connection with the Lindbergh case, in which Hauptmann said that he "will kidnap Lindy baby—hope for me," was made today by Warden Preston E. Thomas.

Warden Thomas said this information had been given to New York and New Jersey authorities investigating the Lindbergh baby tragedy at the time.

The prisoner who received the note from Hauptmann, Warden Thomas said, was George Paul, sentenced to the penitentiary from Mahoning County on January 25, 1930, to serve 10 to 25 years for robbery.

Paul originally was connected with Mitchel Field in New York. He claimed to have met Hauptmann in Perth Amboy, N. J.

Following the kidnaping, Paul insisted that he be allowed to get in touch with Hauptmann "to save the life of the Lindbergh baby and to save my friend." His request, however, was denied.

Warden Thomas said, however, that he and Paul, along with a guard, visited the Lindbergh home in New Jersey, and the information was turned over to authorities there.

Warden Thomas said that Paul's real name is George Michael Paullin.

"On or about the last of 1931, or the first part of 1932," the warden related, "This prisoner received a letter as follows:

"'I WILL write you a few lines today to let you know that all is well. Old KID, how I wish you were here with us. A NAP is taken by Mildred every afternoon since she came from the hospital. Mr. LINDY went to Red Bank last week and while skating caught a severe cold and has pneumonia. Old BABY wish you could have been with us last week as we surely had a grand time. I HOPE everything is going well with you. As FOR me things are not going so good. Oh, ME, oh, my.' (Signed)—Bruno.

(The capitalized words in the above were not that way in the original note, but have been made here to serve as a key to the code—Ed.)

"On account of the peculiar wording and disconnected sentences the letter was particularly noted by Miss A. A. Thomas, mail censor.

"Soon after the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby, I received several notes from prisoner Paul asking for an interview. His request was not granted at the time. Then came a note to me at night that he must see me at once and that the subject matter was the kidnaping of the Lindbergh child."

The warden said he granted Paul an interview and the prisoner showed him a letter. The warden said:

"He asked me if I saw anything in that letter or in other words and what it meant to me. I told him I did not figure out anything from it.

"Then he told me that it was a code letter and that the second word in each sentence should be taken out and put together, which we did, and which read as follows:

"'Will kidnap Lindy baby. Hope for me.'"

The warden said that he conferred with Miss Thomas, his daughter who acts as the mail censor at the prison, and learned that Paul had received several letters signed Hauptmann. Miss Thomas said today, however, that she did not remember of any letters having been received with the full signature, Bruno Hauptmann.

Warden Thomas said the matter was taken up with authorities in New Jersey and with Governor George White of Ohio. Finally, it was decided to take the prisoner to New Jersey and to the home of the Lindberghs. He added:

"Paul, at that time, did not care to give the name of the suspected kidnaper, but he wanted to get in touch with him so that the life of the baby could be saved.

"He said that—'If he could do that much it would be all that he could see his way clear to do at that time.'

"Officers stationed at the Lindbergh home did not seem to take much stock in Paul's story, nor in his proposition to try to get in touch with the kidnapers and we brought him back to the penitentiary here."

The warden revealed that the night before the day of his return to the prison here, Paul was lodged in jail at Trenton, N. J. He continued:

"That time he told the story that he wrote a letter out from the jail to a party in Perth Amboy to let the kidnaper know that he was there and what his mission was, and afterwards he claimed and still claims that Bruno Hauptmann with a woman was at the railway station in Newark while we were waiting for the train.

"He also claimed that they endeavored to get in touch with him while he was buying tickets, but that the watchfulness of the guard prevented them from doing so."

The warden said that both he and the guard remembered the couple mentioned by Paul. He added:

"I cannot see, and neither can the guard, that there is any resemblance between the pictures in the newspapers of today and the parties we saw there."

Paul, however, was shown a newspaper picture of Hauptmann and was asked whether he recognized it. The warden said:

"He said instantly, 'That's the man.'

"I asked him if he was the man who wrote the code letter, and he said, 'Yes, it was.'"

Woman's Testimony Gives Lindbergh Kidnaping Clue

By Associated Press

New York, Sept. 22—A woman's testimony, District Attorney Samuel Foley of Bronx County declared today, led to "several of yesterday's important developments" in the Bruno Richard Hauptmann extortion case.

The statement followed revelations that a mysterious blonde had been questioned for seven hours.

Assistant Chief Inspector John J. Sullivan, head of New York city's detective force, who has held steadfastly to his belief that Hauptmann did not play a lone hand in his alleged part in the kidnap case, today sent his detectives on the trail of another woman, who he believes aided Hauptmann.

Sullivan recalled that footprints of a woman were found beneath the windows of the Lindbergh home near Hopewell, N. J., the blustery night of March 1, 1932, shortly after the kidnaping of 20-months-old Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., was discovered.

The footprint of a man also was found near the foot of the ladder which the kidnaper leaned against the house and down which he went with the baby from the second-floor window of the nursery. That footprint was to be checked, New Jersey State police said, with footprints of Hauptmann.

Despite the expressed belief of other investigators that Hauptmann had no aid, Sullivan has held to his view that it "was not a one-man job." Also he has held that "if Hauptmann was not actually at the scene of the kidnaping he had a hand in the machinery."

It was in pursuit of this theory that Sullivan sent his detectives today in search of the mystery woman. Nothing was disclosed as to her identity or her possible connection with the case.

Dr. John F. Condon, the "Jafsie" who acted as intermediary for Col. Lindbergh in his efforts to obtain the safe return of the baby, also expressed the belief today that Hauptmann was involved and that he was not alone.

Condon said he believed at least three persons were involved, and, recalling that Hauptmann had explained his possession of the $13,750 in ransom notes found in his garage, by stating it had been entrusted to him by Isadore Fisch, said he thought police should investigate Fisch's death last March in Germany. He said:

"I believe the body should be exhumed and an autopsy performed. I suspect foul play. I believe he was murdered."

Search for more of the $50,000 ransom money Dr. John F. Condon, the "Jafsie" who acted as a Lindbergh intermediary, passed to a "John" over the wall of St. Raymond's cemetery in the Bronx, extended today to the German town of Kamenz, where Hauptmann, as a youth, was known as a "bad boy" and was called to the Kaiser's army to serve as a machine gunner in the World War.

Arthur Johnson, New York detective who speaks German and who is now in Vienna awaiting the extradition of Ivan Poderjay from Vienna on charges of perjury, has been instructed by cable to proceed to Leipzig to check Hauptmann's story that a man named Isadore Fisch had given him the $13,750 found in the Hauptmann garage, to keep until he returned from Germany.

Johnson also was instructed to go to Kamenz to interview officials there on the theory that some of the ransom money might have been sent there.

Lindy Kidnaping Suspect Faces Glare of Police Scrutiny

Mystery Blonde Grilled Seven Hours in Probe of Kidnaping

(By International News Service)

New York, Sept. 22—A blonde mystery woman, pretty of face and stylishly dressed, entered the Lindbergh kidnaping mystery today.

Summoned to the office of District Attorney Samuel Foley in the Bronx as one of numerous witnesses questioned by Foley or his assistants preparatory to the formal lodging of extortion charges against Bruno Hauptmann with the grand jury on Monday, the woman was grilled incessantly for seven hours.

When she left the offices shortly after midnight she was pale, distraught and apparently bordering on collapse. Two detectives accompanied her from the building and she was whisked away. Though officials refused to verify it, it was believed she was taken to a detention house for women.

District Attorney Foley flatly declined to reveal the woman's identity. He said:

"She's a respectable married woman. We just questioned her because we are questioning all persons, men or women, who knew Hauptmann or ever had any connection with his affairs. Her questioning was routine."

"From 5 o'clock until midnight?" he was asked.

"You heard me," the prosecutor retorted tersely.

He would not explain why she had been taken from the building through a rarely used rear door in the custody of detectives.

From a member of Foley's staff, however, it was learned that the mystery witness was a "Miss Hinkle," but the spelling of the name and her address were refused.

Earlier in the day International News Service reporters questioning Mrs. Pauline Rauch, landlady of the house at 1279 East 22d street, where Hauptmann lived, had brought the name "Haenckle" into the case.

"An expensive limousine used to come frequently to the house," she said. "Mr. Hauptmann told me it belonged to a friend of his named Haenckle. I never saw who came or went in the car.

Whether or not the mysterious blonde beauty is connected in any way with the flashy limousine or Hauptmann's friend "Haenckle" was not determined.

Police officials today shot holes in the "defense" of Hauptmann.

Another weak spot in the alibi of the calculating, tight-lipped carpenter came to light with the revelation that Hauptmann used ransom money in paying his rent eight months ago.

Ransom Money Used To Pay Rent

Hauptmann, answering questions at the police "line up" yesterday concerning the $13,750 of the Lindberg ransom found secreted in his garage, declared the first he knew that this cache was money was three weeks ago.

Yet, it was disclosed today, Hauptmann in paying his rent last January 2 to his landlady, Mrs. Pauline Rauch, 75 years old, handed over five $20 bills, one of which was a gold certificate and formed part of the ransom money.

This sharp discrepancy is simply one other reason why the police do not believe Hauptmann's story that not only does he know nothing of the kidnaping but that he had nothing to do with obtaining the $50,000 ransom.

Hauptmann said the money found in his garage had been left in his safe keeping by a friend—one Isadore Fische—who went off to Germany and died.

Money Found After Search

Detectives, searching for clues and more of the ransom money, interviewed Mrs. Rauch. She lives on the first floor of the two-story house at 1279 East 222d street, the Bronx, whose upper floor is occupied by the Hauptmanns.

After ransacking the pantry and other parts of her home, the landlady found two of the Lindbergh ransom bills which, she said, Hauptmann had given her for rent. One of the bills had been given to her last January.

The police recalled that when Inspector John J. Sullivan interrogated Hauptmann at the police "line up" yesterday the questioning ran as follows:

Q.—(Sullivan)—Where did you get all the money in your garage? A.—A friend gave me all his effects to take care of until he came back from the other side.

Q.—Is he coming back? A.—No, he died in Germany.

G.—Did you know it was money? A.—I didn't know it was money. I thought it was bills or anything. I never suspected it was money.

Q.—When did you find out it was money? A.—Three weeks ago.

Ten days before the Lindbergh baby was kidnaped Hauptmann was working in the lumber yard from which lumber for the kidnaper's ladder was obtained.

Six days after the kidnaping, Hauptman was still working there. He worked there one day more—one day after a ransom note was mailed to Col. Lindbergh—then quit.

This was learned exclusively by International News Service today as Department of Justice agents began renewed questioning of Hauptmann's wife.

Hauptmann, looking wan, was brought from the Bronx jail to the office of District Attorney Samuel Foley shortly after noon for renewed questioning.

Hauptmann's wife also was brought to Foley's office, accompanied by James W. Fawcett, a Brooklyn attorney who declined to talk with newspapermen and sat in an ante-room as her husband was taken into the district attorney's office. They arrived separately and did not meet.

On the heels of this revelation came the disclosure from Colonel Norman Schwartzkopf, head of the New Jersey state police, that a cast of the footprints of the man who received the $50,000 ransom from Dr. J. F. ("Jafsie") Condon in St. Raymond's cemetery, is in possession of authorities.

Schwartzkopf left Trenton, N. J., shortly before noon to confer with District Attorney Samuel Foley of the Bronx. Whether he took the footprint cast with him could not be learned.

The New Jersey state police chieftain said, however, there is no cast of the kidnaper's footprints. It has been rumored several times police found footprints of the abductor near the Lindbergh home but Colonel Schwarzkopf said he had no knowledge of them and denied flatly that they had been transferred to a tell-tale cast.

Money Spent Despite Idleness

Sullivan brought out that Hauptmann had not worked steadily since 1932, and in the meantime had spent considerable money.

Police are checking a brokerage account supposedly maintained by Hauptmann which at one time was said to have a balance of $25,000. This would leave a few thousand dollars still unaccounted for.

Interest was attracted to a collection of personal effects of Hauptmann which District Attorney Foley's staff gathered.

They included a shoe box with the name of "Jacobson Brothers Shoe Store" in Fordham, where a $10 gold ransom note was passed recently. Police say Hauptmann purchased a new pair of shoes at the time that particular note was passed.

There were two pairs of field glasses, one of which cost $126. Another item was a strong box, locked, but which attaches of the district attorney's office said had been opened. They said they did not know what was in it.

The questioning of Hauptmann today, piled on top of his two-day grilling in Manhattan before he was taken to the Bronx and his arduous day in court and under verbal fire of Foley and his assistants until long after midnight, made Hauptmann the "granite man" of recent crime.

Doomed Dillinger Aide Slain in Prison Break

The court heard the case this week and took it under advisement.

"WEAPONS" OF SOAP

Where Dillinger successfully made his way out of Crown Point, Ind., jail last Spring by cowing a guard with a pistol fashioned of wood, Pierpont and Makley were unsuccessful in attempting to bluff Ohio prison guards with, weapons made from soap.

The weapons, those who saw them said, were "perfect imitations" of a .32 calibre revolver and an automatic pistol.

More than a dozen shots were fired by prison guards, who rushed to the L-block where condemned prisoners are housed, in response to an alarm sounded by Guard John T. Jones, who sensed the attempt at a break as soon as he saw the two prisoners outside their cells and in the cage surrounding the L-block.

The story of the attempted break by the condemned Dillinger gangsters to escape, as told by Deputy Warden J. C. Woodward, follows:

"Two guards were in the death house when the attempted break was made. O. E. Slagle was inside the cage, within which are the death cells. A guard, C. W. Pfarr, was seated on a table outside the cage. A guard, J. T. Jones, was in a little guard room separating the death house from the L cell block.

GRABBED KEY OF GUARD

"Slagle was in the cage putting a meal into Pierpont's cell. Pierpont told him he did not feel good and wanted some salts.

"As the guard turned away from the cell door, Pierpont hit him with his fist, and said 'Give me that key.'"

Slagle refused and Pierpont struck him again and took the key away from him.

"He then produced his gun, made of soap and blackened, and marched down the cage and unlocked Russell Clark's cell door.

"They then opened all the cells and turned loose all eight men in the death house.

"Makley had a small soap automatic, while Pierpont had a soap revolver.

"These desperate convicts then backed the two guards toward the steel door behind which Jones was fortified.

"They had to get past Jones' fortification before they could reach the open cell block. They broke a big table into pieces and tried to smash their way into Jones.

"Jones, who has nothing more than a peek-hole through the steel door, quickly sensed the trouble and sounded a general alarm.

"The riot squad, always held ready in the main guard room, rushed to the L-block where they found Pierpont and Makley leading an attack upon the door.

"The riot squad lined up, the door was flung open and as Pierpont and Makley poked their false weapons toward the guards the guards opened fire.

"Pierpont and Makley dropped instantly before the first volley, and one guard was wounded in the hand as he attempted to get into the death house."

Order was quickly restored. Guards were thrown around the outside walls and the inside additional guards were called to duty to guard against any possible outside help getting into the men who sought freedom.

The other six men in the L-block quickly were returned to their cells, none of them apparently injured by the rifle fire.

New York, Sept. 22—"Once the questioners of Bruno Richard Hauptmann get him to make one true statement about his connection with the Lindbergh baby kidnaping case the rest will follow and he will reveal that he is the only person who really knows anything about the facts in the case."

Prisoner Has Police Baffled in Probe

This was the carefully considered opinion today of Dr. Dudley D. Shoenfeld, the psychiatrist who joined with International News Service in advocating the search for a lone kidnaper-killer and ransom collector.

Dr. Shoenfeld pointed out that after more than 96 hours in custody Hauptmann had disclosed nothing resembling the truth about his connection with the Lindbergh case.

"Hauptmann apparently has the police completely baffled, although they observed him passing the ransom money, found more on his person and discovered more than $13,000 in bills cached at his home," Dr. Shoenfeld said.

"None of the official statements given out indicate that Hauptmann has done anything more than lie glibly about how the money came into his possession or resort to muteness.

"I do not know how the questioning has been conducted, but I do know that I advised the New York authorities not to bulldoze or browbeat their lone prisoner when they finally caught him.

"The writer of the ransom notes, the kidnap-killer of the baby and the man who collected the ransom had one important mental quirk in common—they, or he, rather, clearly exhibited a belief in his omnipotence, a relief that he could get away with anything.

"Nothing can be gained by browbeating or bulldozing this type of individual. Their emotional reactions are not normal; they are really not adult. I warned Lieutenant James Finn that this sore of questioning would result in a mulish mutism or in deliberate, not even careful, lying."

Alienist Ready to Examine Prisoner

Dr. Shoenfeld disclosed that the New York authorities have "solemnly pledged" they would take him to visit their lone Lindbergh case prisoner, in case they caught him, so that Shoenfeld could make an unofficial examination of the man.

"I do not expect to make this examination until the police are through questioning Hauptmann," Dr. Shoenfeld said. "There will be time enough for that visit between the time he is booked on more definite charges and the time he will go on trial."

SUDDEN WEALTH OF FISCH IS PROBED

By ERICH BOY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

(Copyright, 1934, by International News Service Throughout the World. Reproduction in Whole or in Part Strictly Forbidden.)

Leipzig, Sept. 22—Buried in his grave for many months, Isidore Fisch stepped back into the world lime-light in connection with the Lindbergh case today when investigation revealed that although he went to America as a poor emigrant in 1925, he was able by 1932 to support members of his family in lavish style with money from the United States.

At the same time, his family disclosed to International News Service that Fisch was well acquainted with Bruno Richard Hauptmann, held as receiver of the Lindbergh ransom, who has told police he received it from Fisch and cached it in his Bronx garage.

It was Solomon Fisch, the dead man's aged father and the only one of the family who failed to profit by Fisch's sudden luxury in the United States, who told the story which so dramatically threw his son into the spotlight. He said:

"With a friend who lived in Leipzig, Isidore emigrated to the United States on September 8, 1925, to work with furriers in New York. He made good money. He and his friend were loyal to each other, but the latter did not like Isidore's Jewish friends in the Bronx, with whom he had strong relations.

Here the elder Fisch produced one doctor's bill, marked paid, and amounting to 800 marks ($300). He indicated that at the time of his return, Isidore was in possession of a large amount of money.

A friend's mother, also interviewed by International News Service, disclosed that prior to Fisch's death the latter turned over to the friend full power of attorney and his brother and sister gave him the right to withdraw all his remaining money in America.

FRIEND VANISHES

Continuing his story, Solomon Fisch said:

"Isidore told me he had plenty of money in an American bank, but I don't know where the money is. I never got anything after his death."

Fisch's sister, Hannah, the mother declared, received from Fisch a short while before he died the key to a safe he had in the United States. The mother said:

"He told her to keep it because it was for his safe in America. I understand, however, that Hannah and Pinkus turned over to my son full power signed by them to withdraw all Fisch's remaining money from America.

"But so far as I know, the money has never been withdrawn, and no word has come from my son regarding its whereabouts."

Germany Ready to Exhume Fisch's Body

(Copyright, 1934, the Associated Press.)

Leipzig, Germany, Sept. 22—Leipzig police headquarters informed the Associated Press today that the body of Isidor Fisch probably would be disinterred for post-mortem examination if the New York police should request it.

Fisch was named in the United States as formerly connected with Bruno Richard Hauptmann, held in New York in connection with the Lindbergh baby kidnaping. He died here March 29 of this year.

The local police indicated they would, however, do nothing in the matter unless they were asked by American authorities.

Blast and Fire Kill 100 Welsh Miners

By Associated Press

Wrexham, Wales, Sept. 22—One hundred coal miners were believed killed today in a terrific explosion followed by a fire in Cresford colliery.

They were trapped nearly two miles from the mouth of the pit in which they were working.

Rescuers, despite the most heroic efforts, were unable to penetrate the wall of flame and the floods of poisonous gases.

Two men of a rescue party were carried out unconscious and died at the surface. Sixteen bodies of miners who had been overcome close to the pit entrance were recovered.

RANSOM HAGGLING WENT ON WHILE BABY LAY DEAD

By RUSSELL J. BIRDWELL

(Copyright, 1934, by Universal Service and the Los Angeles Examiner)

Los Angeles, Sept. 22—Universal Service and the Los Angeles Examiner present exclusively the full text of 13 fatal ransom notes in which a kidnaper haggled for $50,000 over the crushed body of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

Universal Service and the Los Angeles Examiner also have the original handwriting of Richard Hauptmann—his signature—the tell-tale evidence by which the alien was linked with the kidnaping and murder of America's most famous child.

Each missive bore a strange insignia, an official "signature" by which Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh would know they were in communication with the person who stole the baby.

Many Notes Planned, Marks Reveal

In the lower right hand corner of each of the missives three holes were punched with a blunt instrument, perhaps a nail. The notes when placed together disclosed that all of the holes had been punched into the paper at the same time, indicating that the kidnaper had anticipated the writing of many ransom missives before his goal was accomplished.

Around the holes, two interlocking circles had been fashioned. These circles, in smudgy blue ink, had apparently been made with a clumsy device. A splotch of red ink, perhaps daubed on with a cork, was in the portion where the circles crossed. Two upright marks, on either side of the circles, completed the kidnaper's signature.

Note No. 1 Asks $50,000

Note left on window sill where baby was taken from Lindbergh home:

Have 50,000 $ ready 25000 $ in 20 $ bills 15000 $ in 10 $ bills 10,000 $ in 5 $ bills after 2-4 days we will inform you were to deliver the mony.

Mr. Col. Lindbergh:

Dear sir: We have warned you note to make anything public also notify the public.

Now you have to take the consequence. It means we will holt the baby until everything is quiet. We can note make any appointment just now. We know very well what it means to us. It is rely necessary to make a world affair out off this or to get yours baby back as son as possible.

To settle this affair in a quiet way will better for both sides. Don't be afraid about the baby. Have lady beginning care of it day and night. She also will feed him according to the diet.

On the back page of the second note was written:

We are interested to send him back in gut health. Our ransom was just for 50,000 $ but now we have to take another person to it and probable have to keep the baby for a longer time as we expected. So the amount will be 70,000$ 20,000$ in 50 $ bills 25,000$ in 20 bills.

Don't mark any bills or take the one serial number. We will inform you later were to deliver the money, but we will note do so until the police is out of the case and the papers are quiet.

The kidnapink was prepared years. So we are prepared for everything.

Note Number Three

Three days later Colonel Breckenridge received the following note addressed through the attorney to Colonel Lindbergh:

Mr. Colonel Lindbergh: Dear sir. Did you receive our letter from March 4. We put the mail in one off the letter placesnear Brown Hall, Brooklyn. We know police interfere with your private mail. How can we come to any arrangements this way.

In the future we will send our letter to Mr. Breckenbridge at 25 Broadway.

We believe polise captured our letter and it not forwarded to you.

We will note accept any go-between from your site. We will arrangt this latter. Thers is not worry about the boy. He is very weel and will be feed according to the diet. Best (blank) for information about it. We are interested to send your boy back in god health.

Signature.

The second page of the second note was as follows:

Is it necessary to make a word . . . or to get your boy back as soon as possible.

Wy (meant for why) dit yu ingnore ouer letter which we left in the rooms. The baby would be back long ago. You would not get any assist from police because this kidnaping was planed for a year anyway but be not ofraid the boy would not be strong enough and ransom was for 50,000$ . . . (several words blurred) the baby uninjured so now it will be 70,000$ 20000 in 50$ bills 25000 in 50$ bills 15,000 in 10$ bills 10,000 in 5 $ bills. We warn you again not to make any more . . . (several words blurred) we will inform you more and you will have money.

Note Number Four

The fourth ransom note was mailed to Dr. John F. Condon, "Jafsie," at 2974 Decatur avenue, New York. The note to Dr. Condon read:

Dear Sir: If you are willing to act as go-between in Lindbergh case please follow study instructions.

Handel inclosed letter personally to Mr. Lindbergh. It will explain everything. Don't tell anyone about it as soon as we find out the press or police is notified everything are conselt and it will be a further delay.

Money is ready.

After that we will give you further instructions don't be affraid we are not out for your 1000 $ keep it only act quickly.

Be at home every night between 6-12 by this time you will hear from us.

"We Trust You"

In the same letter the following note was sent to Colonel Lindbergh. It read:

Dear Sir. Mr. Condon may act as go-between. You may give him the 70,000 $ make one packet this will bee about 5 by 7 by 14 ins. (Diagram of size drawn on note, dimensions indicated).

We have notified you already to what kind of bills we warn you not in any way to notify the police ther will be a futher delay after we have the money in hand we will tell you where to find your boy.

You may have an airplan ready it is about 150 mil awy. But before telling you the (blank) a delay of 8 hours will be between.

Dr. Condon received the fifth ransom note on the evening of March 12, 1932, about 7 o'clock. This was the note delivered by Joseph Perrone, the taxicab driver who has identified Bruno Richard Hauptmann as the man who paid him a dollar to deliver this note.

This note read:

Mr. Condon. We trust you but we will note come in your hans it is the danger over you cane note known if police or secret servise is watching you

Follow this instruction.

Take car and drive to the last subway station from Jerome ave line. 100 feet from the last station on the left seide is a empty park further stand with a big open porch around. You will find a notise in senter of the porch underneath a stone this notie will tell you were to find note.

After ¾ of an hauer be on the plane bring the money with you.

Act accordingly.

Cross the street and follow the fence from the cemetery direction to 233 street.

I will meet you.

But apparently the wily kidnaper was only testing "Jafsie" and did not meet him. On March 16, four days later, Dr. Condon received the seventh ransom note, wrapepd in wraping aer which also contained the baby's sleeing suit. This was mailed from Station F, Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y. it read:

Dear sir. Ouer man faild to collect the mony. There are no more confidential conference after us meeting from March 12. Those arrangements to hazardous for us. We will note allow our man to confer in a way licke befor. Circumstance will not allow us to make a transfare licke you wish. It is imposibly for us. Wy should we move the baby and face danger to take another person to the plase is entirely out of question. It seems you are afraid if we are the right party and if the boy is alright. Well you have our signature it is always the same as the first one. Specially three 3 holes on the back of this note was written.

Now we will send you the sleeping suit from the baby besides it means $3 more expenses because we have to pay another one. Please tell Mr. Lindbergh note to worry the baby is well. We only have to give him more food.

You are willing to pay the 70,000 note 50,000 without seeing the baby first or note let us know about that in the New York American. We can't act other way because we don't licke to give up ouer safety plase or to move the baby.

Sent Garment

If you are willing to accept this deal put this in the paper.

I accept money is redy.

After 8 hours we have the money received we will notify you where to find the baby if thers is any snagg, you will be responsible what will follow.

I. was the identification of this piece of sleeping garment by Betty Gow, nurse of the kidnaped child, that led Colonel Lindbergh to be convinced he was dealing with the right person or persos.

Five days later, the eighth note, mailed at Station N, 203 West 69th street, New York, was delivered through the mail to Dr. Condon. It read:

Dear sir: You and Mr. Lindbergh know our program. If you don't accept we will wait untill you agree wite ouer deal. We know you to come to us anyway but why should Mrs. and Mr. Lindbergh suffer longer as necessary. We will note communicate with you or Mr. Lindbergh until you write so in the paper.

We will tell you again: this kidnaping cace whas prepared for a year already so the polise wouldn't have any luck to find us or the child you only push everything farther out.

Will you send that little package to Mr: Lindbergh. It contains the sleeping suit from the baby. The baby is well.

"Wasting Time"

Then on March 30, the ninth ransom note, mailed from the West 69th street station, was received by Dr. Condon. It read:

Mr. Dr. John Condon. Dear Sir, it is not necessary to furnish any code. You and Mr. Lindbergh know our program very well. We will keep the child in ouer save plase until we have the money in hand, but if the deal is not close until the 8 of April we will ask for 80,000 more. Note 70,000——100,000.

How can Mr. Lindbergh follow so many false does he know we are the right party ouer signature is still the same as on the ransom note but if Mr. Lindbergh like to fool around for another month we can note help it. Once he have to come to us anyway but if he keeps on waiting we will double ouer amount. There is absolutely no fear about the child.

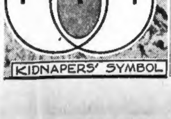
The next day the 10th ransom note, postmarked at Fordham station, New York, addressed to Dr. Condon read:

Dear Sir: Have the money ready by Saturday evening. We will inform you here and how to deliver it. Have the money in one bundle we want to be in a certain place ther is no fear that somebody will take it. We watch everything closely plase tell us know if you are agree and ready for action by Saturday evening —if you put in the paper.

Yes everything O. K.

It is very simple delivery but we find out very soon if there is any snagg. After 8 hours you gets the adr. from the boy on the place you find live leaches. We are innocence.



KIDNAPERS' SYMBOL

Ransom Orders

Then about 7 oclock the night of Aril 2, 1932, word came to Dr. Condon to bring the $50,000 to the lonely cemetery in the Bronx. This note was delivered by a taxi driver as yet unidentified. This 11th note read:

Dear Sir. Take a car and follow Tremont ave. to the east until you reach the number 3225 East Tremont ave.

It is a nursery. Bergen. Greenhauses forist there is a table standing outside right on the door, you find a letter underneath the table covert with a stone, read and follow instructions.

Written on the back of this note was:

Don't speak to anybody on the way if there is any alarm for police car, we warn you. We have the same equipment. Have the money in one bundle. We give you ¾ of an houer to reach the place.

Under the stone at the table at 3225 West Tremont avenue, Dr. Condon found the 12th note which read:

Cross the street and walk to the next corner and follow Whittemore to the stand. Take the money with you. Come alone and walk

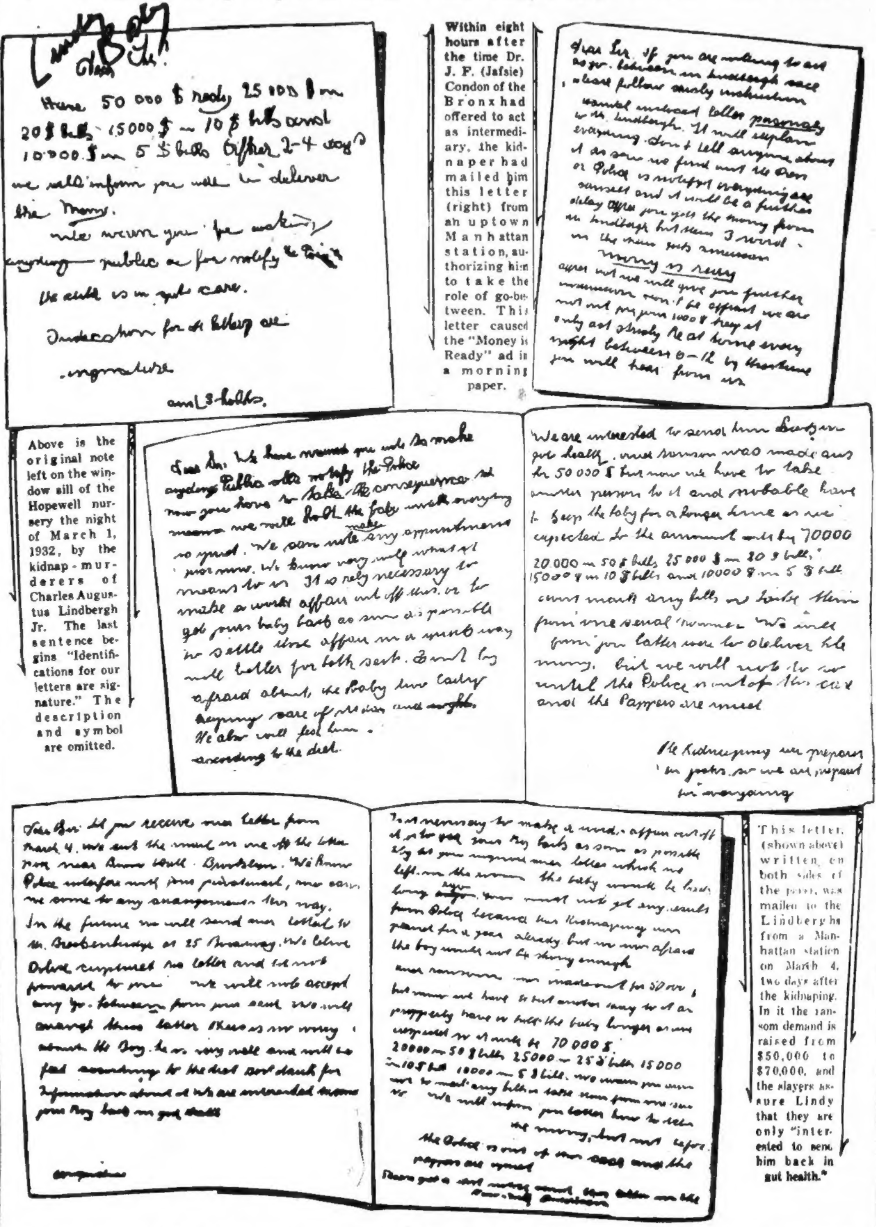
I will meet you

While Colonel Lindbergh is said to have waited in an auto about a block away from 3225 West Tremont avenue, Dr. Condon then walked as directed to the cemetery fence and handed the package containing the $50,000 to the man. He was handed the following note:

The boy is on boad Nelly it is a small boad 28 feet long, to person are on the boat. They are innosent. You will find the boat between Horseneck Beach and Gay Head near Elizabeth Island.

The next day Colonel Lindbergh flew to this point but never found any boat.

U. S. Handwriting Experts Insist That Hauptmann Wrote These Notes



Within eight hours after the time Dr. J. F. (Jafsie) Condon of the Bronx had offered to act as intermediary, the kidnaper had mailed him this letter (right) from an uptown Manhattan station, authorizing him to take the role of go-between. This letter caused the "Money is Ready" ad in a morning paper.

Above is the original note left on the window sill of the Hopewell nursery the night of March 1, 1932, by the kidnap-murderers of Charles Augustus Lindbergh Jr. The last sentence begins "Identifications for our letters are signature." The description and symbol are omitted.

This letter, (shown above) written on both sides of the paper, was mailed to the Lindberghs from a Manhattan station on March 4, two days after the kidnaping. In it the ransom demand is raised from $50,000 to $70,000, and the slayers assure Lindy that they are only "interested to send him back in gut health."

"BLOOD" MONEY DEMANDS. Here are some of the notes written by the Lindbergh baby kidnapers, asking ransom money and promising safe return of the child. The little victim was to be kept in "gut" health, one letter declared. The German spelling of the word "good" as "gut" is one of the many clues which police say indicate that Bruno Richard Hauptmann, German-born suspect now under arrest, was the writer of the "blood" money correspondence. United States Government handwriting experts insist that Hauptmann wrote these notes. (Picture by International News Photograph Service.)

TEXTILE STRIKE ORDERED OFF BY GORMAN

everywhere to complete organization of every worker in the industry.

"Washington headquarters will be maintained permanently and from here we shall at once begin work to see that the Winant board recommendations are fulfilled completely.

"Organization campaign will be directed from this office and you will receive instructions Number 1, New Series, soon. All strike instructions are hereby cancelled and the strike is declared off."

TELLS POINTS WON

Surrounded by a smiling group of textile leaders, many of whom had taken part in the strike that raged from Maine to Alabama, Gorman announced:

"We have secured these definite things:

"An end to the stretchout; a method of determining hours on a basis of fact; a method of determining wages upon a basis of fact; practical recognition of our union; and reform in the whole administration of the labor provisions of the code, on a scale so sweeping that we must confess ourselves surprised at the sweeping character of the victory we have won."

Reports were current in informed textile circles that the new textile labor relations board probably would be announced by the President over the week end.

Order to End Strike Surprises Leader

Leo Rouette, 18, of Woonsocket, R. I., died in a hospital there today, second victim of strike riots, September 13, and national guardsmen were spread through various sections of New England at the time the textile strike was ordered ended by union officials at Washington.

The attitude of strikers generally could not be determined immediately. Earlier in the day eight New England strike units had declared opposition to President Roosevelt's appeal for return to work pending arbitration.

At New England strike headquarters, Pawtucket, R. I., the order struck with a suddenness that resulted in a telephone call to Washington by Joseph R. Sylvia, New England director of the United Textile Workers' Union, who heard the news first from newspapermen.

Through his secretary, Sylvia said:

"I have received no official communication. I have put in a call to Washington to find out what it is all about. Until I find out I would rather not comment."

Sylvia's secretary added that the Rhode Island textile council already had a meeting scheduled for tonight, and that a formal statement might be delayed until after that meeting.

ELY FAILS TO LAUD CURLEY

They included one from Clinton C. DeWolf, secretary to Governor Ely, but none from the Governor, who bitterly opposed Curley in his campaign against General Charles H. Cole.

More were received from Governor Louis J. Brann of Maine, Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago; Mayor James E. Hagan of Somerville, Mayor Joseph L. Hurley of Fall River, former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald and State Treasurer Charles F. Hurley.

Wool Smugglers Escape in Vermont

St. Albans, Vt., Sept. 22 (AP)—Customs patrolmen seized 5000 pounds of smuggled Canadian wool, an automobile and truck five miles from the Canadian border after chasing the contraband load and vehicles into a trap at East Alburgh. Drivers of the cars escaped into the woods after abandoning their machines which bore New York license plates.

REVEAL NEW CANCER CURE

Paris, Sept. 22—The work of the late Mme. Marie Curie, famous discoverer of radium, carried on after death by her daughter, has resulted in a discovery described as a cheaper and more practical treatment of cancer than is afforded by radium itself, International News Service learned today.

Just as Mme. Curie collaborated with her late husband, Pierre, her daughter, Mme. Irene Curie Joliot, also has worked out her discoveries with the aid of M. Joliot.

The Joliot's work may revolutionize the treatment of cancer by placing an effective cancer-fighter within the reach of all medical institutions, was described by one of the couple's scientific collaborators.

"The Joliots have made extraordinary discoveries in the realm of radioactivity," said the informant. "Their results approximate very closely the effects of radium itself."

Red Agitators Reported In Brockton School Strike

Brockton, Sept. 22—Red agitators were reported today to be making their appearance in the strike of 3400 students of the Brockton High School in an effort to incite further trouble such as was attempted at the strike at Dorchester High several months ago.

Prepared for such an eventuality, police and federal agents were keeping a close watch for Red activity, especially the distribution of literature tending to incite the students.

Meanwhile extra police details were ordered to Elden Keith Field today to guard against further outbreaks of striking students, when Brockton meets Lynn General Electric apprentices in its first football game of the season.

The police were helpless last night when more than 3400 boys and girls, striking for shorter hours, surged through the streets, stoned the home of a school master, pulled trolley wires and tied up traffic.

Headmaster John L. Miller refused to discuss the strike situation today saying that he would deal with the students Monday.

Superintendent of Schools John T. Scully had no comment to make, except that he hoped that the difficulties would be ironed out over the week-end and that the students would return to classes Monday morning.

Franklin Bacton of Exchange street was nominated today by a vote of the 3400 students to represent them at the anticipated conference with the headmaster Monday morning. He disclaimed emphatically that he had anything to do with leading the students through streets of Brockton last night.

Among the speakers at the mass meeting held last night in Legion Parkway were Ruth Kasper and Hilda Marastein, who were called upon to represent the female sections of the school in the protest against longer hours. Harold Williamson and Bacton also were speakers.

GOODWIN CAN'T QUIT RACE NOW FOR GOVERNOR

By BERNARD J. DOHERTY

Speculation as to his position in the coming gubernatorial election occupied the attention of both Republican and Democratic leaders today as Frank A. Goodwin, Independent candidate, was sought for an opinion by his loyal supporters.

While all efforts to reach Goodwin today proved futile, many were discussing whether his name would apper on the bllot on lction dy.

The fact is that Goodwin cannot remove his name from the November ballot. The time for doing that expired last August in his case.

CAN'T WITHDRAW

Only those nominated in the primary can withdraw now. And they have until next Thursday. As Goodwin was not nominated in the primary he has no nomination to withdraw.

If Goodwin chooses to take himself out of the fight he will have to ask his friends not to vote for him.

This of course, is what the Curley and Bacon forces hope he will do. Each side would like to have him declare for its candidate.

GOODWIN SATISFIED

In the two party primaries, Goodwin gathered in a total of 160,783 votes, 132,699 of them Republican and 28,084 Democratic. While his G. O. P. showing was not as good as it was two years ago when he ran against William S. Youngman for the nomination for Governor, Goodwin is more than satisfied.

Former Mayor Curley, following his triumph in capturing the Democratic governorship nomination by the tremendous plurality of 155,472 over General Charles H. Cole, was at Oyster Harbor, on Cape Cod, resting today.

In accordance with a call put out by the retiring chairman of the Democratic State committee, Joseph A. Maynard, the committee will meet next Saturday to choose a new state chairman. Mayor Curley as the new party leader, by virtue of his winning the nomination and his vote even bigger than that of Senator Walsh, is expected to designate Charles H. McGlue as his choice. The committee, it is a forgone conclusion, will carry out that wish.

Curley headquarters is flooded with promises of support from independent voters. Also James Roosevelt, as was anticipated, made haste to tell the public that he will be actively on the stump for the man who took such a chance on his own political future, in furthering the presidential candidacy of his illustrous father.

Governor Ely is still "sulking in his tent" but in the face of the decisive decision of his party, a graceful bow to fate on his part is loked for in a short time.

RECORD DRIVER PRAISES AUTO

Harry Hartz, the driver of the air-flow Chrysler Imperial which shattered every closed car high gear record up to 24 hours in Booneville Lake, Utah, arrived in Boston today as the guest of Allen Fay, president of the C. E. Fay company, Chrysler distributors.

Hartz said that the car was selected from the floor of the showroom of the Chrysler company in Detroit by officials of the American Automobile Association and then was driven to Booneville Lake.

Following the record run there, the car was driven to San Francisco, and from there to Los Angeles, where a coast-to-coast economy test run was started. The air-flow machine entered New York a few days later after establishing a mark of 18.15 miles per gallon across the continent.

Hartz said he was very enthusiastic about the performance of the Air-Flow Chrysler, pointing out that the only replacements were for tires and sparkplugs. The speedometer now shows more than 11,000 miles and is still as good as new, despite an 84.43 mile an hour average for 24 hours.

Roosevelt Hears Mayors on Relief

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 22 (AP)—President Roosevelt and Harry L. Hopkins, Federal Relief Administrator, received a special committee of mayors today to map unemployment relief plans for the winter.

Hopkins came to Hyde Park with the conviction that cities and states would have to raise a greater share of relief funds. The mayors, headed by Mayor La Guardia, of New York, brought a long statement of their needs.

Listen, World! by ELSIE ROBINSON

SEEK—AND YE SHALL FIND!

"Ask and it shall be given you; seek and ye shall find; knock and it shall be opened unto you; for everyone that asketh receieveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh, it shall be opened."—Matthew VII, 7.

"You're always," sneers he, "telling people to go after things and they'll get them . . . quoting Scriptures at them. . . . telling them it's up to them to get what they want out of life.

Elsie Robinson

But you know as well as I that old 'seek and ye shall find' stuff is the bunk!"

Guess again, Stranger. The bunk? You're wrong. If there's anything certain in this muddled business of life it's the old promise—"SEEK AND YE SHALL FIND; KNOCK AND IT SHALL BE OPENED UNTO YOU"

I admit I once thought it was the bunk myself. I'd grown up, as most of us did, believing that every word in the Bible was "gospel truth." Then I tackled life—As Is—and everything I'd ever trusted seemed to go blooey.

Ask? Seek? Knock? I didn't do Anything Else But! But did I get what I asked? Did I find what I sought? I . . . DID . . . NOT!

To the contrary, it seemed as if some Arch Demon were taking special pleasure in thwarting my wishes—making things even harder for me.

At first I concluded that the trouble lay in my asking. Maybe I didn't know the right way to seek. So I prayed harder and longer—telling God, with floods of tears, what a tough spot I was in.

Did that do any good? Not a darn bit! Life became even cusseder—impossible. And was I mad! Then, like many another, I concluded this prayer business was the bunk. Those promises? Well, they were just pretty poetry. They didn't have any connection with practical life.

What then? It's a long story—with no new chapters. Every human who has ever dared to live at all knows each page of it. Years of rage and rebellion, discouragement, despair—with no sense in it all, nor any rules by which you could play the game. For, if the old promises were the bunk, what could a fellow believe?

Then one day I said that verse over again, out of habit, hardly knowing what I was doing. And an amazing idea oucurred to me—

> "Ask and it shall be given you . . . seek and ye shall find . . . knock and it shall be opened unto you—"

I had believed those words so implicitly! I had thought they were not only the words of a great saint, but a practical working rule for life. And they had failed me. Or had they?

"Ask and it shall be given you" . . . but it didn't promise WHAT would be given if I asked, WHAT I would find if I sought, or WHAT I would see beyond that opening door!

Had my prayers, perhaps, been answered all the while? And had I thought they weren't, simply because the answer didn't fit my notions?

I began to look back at my life—back at the way things had turned out, after all the storming and battling. My Big Chances—one by one I traced them to their source, and I saw, amazingly, that they had never seemed big chances at first. Instead, many a time they had seemed to be actual hardships—pesty obligations which I peevishly met. Yet, in the end, they became the great "answres" of my life, the great adventures.

And I wondered again—how many chances had I lost because things didn't come as I had planned? And how many other lives had been wasted, simply because they wouldn't accept opportunities unless they fitted some private pattern of their own?

"Seek and ye shall find"—the bunk? No. You're wrong. There's nothing on earth more certain. If you seek the opportunity for greater, wider experience, you'll find it every time.

But are you willing to take it AS you find it? Are you willing to let go of your pet plans and take a chance with life, regardless — following whatever trail that opening door may reveal?

BOYS FREED IN SPEER DEATH GRILL

Has 'One-Way' Reno Ticket

"When you fall in love, nothing else matters", said Jane Winton, Hollywood beauty, when she gave up a promising screen and stage career, four years ago, to wed Horace Gumbel, Jr., wealthy New York broker. Now, according to reports which she does not deny, Jane has fallen out of love again. Her answer to interrogations is a "one way" airplane ticket to Reno.

THIRD YOUTH IS STILL HELD FOR QUESTIONING

By JOHN H. NOONAN
Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent

Northfield, Sept. 22—Two sleepy-eyed Northfield boys, members of prominent families, were roused from their beds for questioning today, only to be eliminated in the investigation of the slaying of Dr. Elliott Speer, headmaster of the Mt. Herman school for Boys.

The boys had been named at Wayne, Pa., by John Wyatt, 17, of Northfield, who was taken in a police roundup of hitch-hikers. He's held for further questioning by a Massachusetts officer who will go to Philadelphia for that purpose.

Wyatt told conflicting stories concerning the school and then told police to question the two boys. He described them as good shdts and owners of shotguns of the type that spurted death to Dr. Speer a week ago last night.

District Attorney Joseph H. Bartlett of Franklin County roused the two boys, questioned them at some length and then announced:

"We are convinced the boys know nothing about it."

Bartlett requested police at Wayne to hold young Wyatt, however, until Massachusetts investigators might question him further. Wyatt was taken into custody from a truck after police here had broadcast a request for all police to question hitchhikers for some clue to the Speer killing.

SHIP FIRE DATA GIVEN ROPER

By Associated Press

New York, Sept. 22—The mass of conflicting evidence evoked by the Department of Commerce inquiry into the liner Morro Castle fire disaster goes before Secretary of Commerce Roper today.

The investigating board is in recess until Monday, permitting the chairman, Dickerson N. Hoover, to go to Washington to confer with Roper.

Seven witnesses were heard before adjournment yesterday. Hoover said he expected to conclude hearings early next week, after recalling Acting Captain William F. Warms and other ship officers.

Despite confusion of testimony, certain facts have emerged and the board has forecast what some of its recommendations will be.

Hoover, questioning a member of the crew about the rapidity with which the fire spread, explained:

"The reason I am interested is because out of this hearing I hope there will come fireproof ship construction."

MILLENS, FABER ASK NEW TRIAL

At exactly noon today, just as the Dedham courthouse was closing on the final chance to file an assignment of errors in the cases of Irving and Murton Millen and Abraham Faber, counsel for the defense walked into the building and filed their assignments.

That action carries the Millen-Faber cases into October, when the Supreme Court will hear the petitions and decide for or against a new trial.

Attorney George Stanley Harvey, counsel for the Millens, presented 39 reasons why a new trial should be granted, and William R. Scharton, counsel for Faber, set forth 38.

MULLONEY PUTS O. K. ON STRAW

Complete denial of any intention to defraud the closed Federal National Bank was made by Daniel C. Mulloney, its former president, when he testified in federal court concerning the $131,000 loan made in 1931 to Miss Helen L. Ganley, niece of John A. Deery, president of the defunct Salem Trust Company.

Mulloney and Deery are now on trial, charged with misapplication of $131,000 of funds of the Federal National Bank.

In testifying of the alleged "straw" loan, Mulloney said:

"The loan and mortgage were good and are good now. If the bank had not been closed it would not have been a subject for discussion now."

Taking full responsibility for the loan, Mulloney told the court that he was aware at the time of the loan that Miss Ganley was a "straw" for Deery and had informed the directors of the fact. He testified he told directors then:

"This thing is proposed by John Deery, who says he will take over $25,000 in cash and $25,000 in bonds for the benefit of the Salem Trust Company."

4 SHOTS FIRED IN THIEF CHASE

Four shots, one believed to have injured a pursued thief, were fired today by Patrolman George Reid in a vain attempt to arrest two youths who had twice hurled him from the running board of their auto in Medford Hillside.

Reid attempted to question them after he noticed them acting suspiciously near a spa at North and Capen streets.

He leaped to the running board when the driver started the car. He was immediately thrown to the street by a quick stop of the car.

Regaining his feet, Reid made another lunge for the running board and succeeded in clinging on long enough to inflict one blow on one of the occupants. The other punched him again and he fell off.

Still prone in the street, Reid levelled his revolver at the car as it swung into Hamilton street headed toward Harold street. One of the four shots pierced the rear of the fleeing car and might have struck one of the youths, he said.

The car was later found abandoned in Harold street.

Reid, who suffered only minor injuries, found the spa lock had been forced.

is a boy from somewhere in the United States that will be heard of throughout the world, ten, twenty or thirty years hence. They should make up their minds not to let that boy get ahead of them.

The world will read with deep regret of a typhoon in Japan, worst disaster since the devastating earthquake of 1933. Many are dead, the financial loss is gigantic, one city alone suffers a loss of more than ninety million dollars.

But all the rest seems as nothing compared with the fact that more than 400 school children were crushed to death.

The courage with which Japan has endured the long series of disasters inflicted by nature's cruelty, and the energy with which they have overcome and risen above each disaster, are the best tribute to Japanese character and courage.

United States and New York detectives that have not ceased following up the Lindbergh kidnaping deserve credit for the capture of an individual who secured thousands of dollars from Lindbergh under the pretense of having the Lindbergh child in his possession. Thus far, however, there is no indication that the actual kidnaper and murderer of the Lindbergh child has been found. The capture, while important, is probably no more than that of an ingenious extortionist.

Worried Republicans have all sorts of new ERA surprises. The other day, California Republicans voted, 113 to 4, denouncing Upton Sinclair's "EPIC," or "End Poverty in California" plan, as radically Socialist.

Now Upton Sinclair is overwhelmingly nominated for governor by the Democrats, and his "EPIC" is swallowed, practically whole, by the Democratic platform.

Old-fashioned Democrats who had not thought of "EPIC" appear glad to give Mr. Sinclair his entire asking, laying everything in his lap, that he, and not they, may be responsible.

While Republicans denounced Upton Sinclair as "radically Socialist," the Socialist party, in which Mr. Sinclair has been prominent for years, now refuses to include him among Socialists.

Republicans say Sinclair has invented a "spurious Utopia." Mr. Sinclair doesn't think so, and believes that it will take not more than $100,000,000 to finance his California program. In these days, $100,000,000 is little more than "chicken feed."

Mussolini's Italy makes it a rule that in all Italian textile industries at least 30 per cent of the workers shall be men. The percentage hitherto has been much smaller. Also, the men will receive 12 per cent higher pay than the women. And the women can tend looms as well as the men or better.

Our determined government fights poverty in divers ways. For instance, the government will give to the needy, having awarded contracts to manufacturers in Chicago; Alliance, O.; Green Bay, Wis., and Los Angeles, 2,805,000 pounds of Swiss cheese. It is American Swiss cheese, of course. Patriotism would demand that.

The government is also going to give away 55,000 pounds of "natural" cheese.

The government's cheese beneficiaries will take it for granted that government will also supply rye bread and mustard, for free-born Americans require them with Swiss cheese.

O. O. McIntyre NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

New York, Sept. 22—Nice time of night for a bat to fly through my open window. Just as I finished a haunted house mystery, too. I suppose all day the thing has been hanging by his toes and thinking: "This will be a dandy night to fly around and frighten Odd McIntyre."

It's a good thing my wife is house visiting on Long Island. If she were here Lily Pons would have to reach for a new high note. The only reason I have the covers over my head is on account of the chill. Every autumn I do. Ask anybody.

O. O. McIntyre

An evening alone and I have to draw something like this. I suppose when I reach for the papers in the morning there'll be a zebra in the hall. I can always go to sleep writing imaginary headlines. Girl Jumps 10 Stories. Ship Rams Yacht. Bloodsucking Vampire Attacks . . . A moron could think up something better than that.

I remember reading a man's hair turned white when a bat got into it. Mine is just muddy gray anyway. I'd like it white. And I'll probably wind up with a stiff straight-up pompadour. Something for the Mrs. when she arrives—a permanent fright wig.

Doesn't seem to be rustling anymore. If I have to have a bat around, I don't want the moody, sulky sort. Wonder how much he measures from tip to tip? Looked an eagle to me at first glance. There goes a crash. It's on the perfume table. A tom-boy, eh! From what I've heard of bats a little perfume won't hurt it. The deaf dog is a help. For the memory book: An evening with a blind bat and a deaf dog. Life is certainly grand to me. Work my fingers to the bone and the best I get is playing host to a bat.

I guess it thinks I'm scared stiff. Well, look the way I'm wiggling my toes. Getting sort of smothery, I am. That's the fix the world is in. A fellow slowly asphyxiating sticks his head up for air and gets a bat in his hair. Can't even die with your boots on anymore. I'll take one quick peep anyway. There it is hanging to a curtain pole. Still pouting, eh! Our first quarrel. I suppose it expects me to get up and cook it something. Maybe it would like to look through my Chicago Fair pen knife. Hang there and sulk for all I care.

Napoleon had to fight off bats on St. Helena. Flocks of them. And here I am complaining over just one teentsie-weentsie one. I'll wave friendly like. Yoo-hoo! There's probably a nice streak in even a bat. It pays no attention. Dumbest thing I ever saw. No more waves for it. Not even a wavelet.

It looks as though things have settled down to an endursnce test between us. It hanging there and me under the covers to a decision. I'm willing to meet the thing half way. Anything is better than this. I wasn't going to mention it, but my heart's acting funny. Flutters awhile mr-r-rrr and then into slow tick-tock. I need air. So does the bat. Lots of it. Why can't it go on home now? It's had its visit. This place wasn't built for a bat roost. So long. I'll see you around. Don't act as though you noticed anything but I think it has flown across the room. If I called on anybody and they hid under the covers I'd take the hint. A fine howdy-do for my wife to come home and find an old bat in my bed-room.

Maybe it thinks I'm just eccentric. Probably in other rooms where it has flown everybody begins to scream and carry on. Why should I get up and make a fuss. I'm better than any bat. Also I'm not a drone. Every day I'm up bright and early. What has a bat contributed to the arts? Low, skulking things flying into rooms unwanted at night. And what I've heard about what they carry on their wings.

So long as it seems to think it owns the place, I wonder if it cared if I got a drink of water. I'll take a look again. It's gone. Probably hiding in some of my clothes. It will be my luck to dress all up, go somewhere and have a bat fly out of my pocket. Still no one will think anything. I've always been a card. No party is complete without me jumping out of a dark place with a feather duster. Or jerking a chair from under someone.

• • •

This hiding is cowardly. Where's the McIntyre esprit? The pioneer push? Off with the covers. Here stands the gladiator. That is for a second. A window shade flew suddenly up. And I made it across the twin beds in one bound and nothing flat. That bat thinking it could fly!

Cardinal O'Connell Given Highest K. of C. Honor

The highest honor within the gift of the Knights of Columbus was bestowed on Cardinal O'Connell today at a luncheon at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel when Supreme Knight Martin H. Carmody presented His Eminence with the title of honorary member of the Supreme Council of the organization.

The Supreme Council is the highest tribunal of the Knights of Columbus and Cardinal O'Connell is the only living person who holds the distinction of being an honorary member.

The title has been previously given only three times in the history of the organization. Those who received the title were the late King Albert of Belgium, Cardinal Mercier of Belgium and Marshal Ferdinand Foch.

CARMODY PRESENT

Supreme Knight Martin H. Carmody made the trip from his home in Grand Rapids, Mich., personally to present His Eminence with an engrossed certificate of membership to the Supreme Council and with a gold life membership card.

In accepting the honor, Cardinal O'Connell said:

"The standing of this great organization, which I have cherished from its infancy, was never so fine as it is today.

"I believe the Supreme Knight [illegible] in the state officers have been the best our organization has ever known, not only as upright citizens, but as loyal Catholics.

KNIGHTS PRAISED

"The foundation on which our organization is built is one of which the church and state may be proud. It has served both. In time of crisis it has come forward, not with mere lip service, but sacrifice."

Katharine Farnam Will Wed Again

Reno, Nev., Sept. 22—Joseph L. Nielson, a naval lieutenant commander, obtained a license to marry Mrs. Katharine S. Farnam, former New London, Conn., socialite, shortly after he had been divorced on grounds of cruelty by Mrs. Helen Nicol Nielson.

Mrs. Farnam divorced Tracy Farnam on grounds of cruelty here a few days ago.

Fr. J. Finen of Manchester to Be Made Monsignor

Manchester, N. H., Sept. 22—In the presence of Catholic clergy from all parts of the state, the Rev. John E. Finen, DD, will be raised to the rank of monsignor tomorrow.

The ceremony will be held in St. Anne's church here, where Fr. Finen has been pastor since 1926. Bishop John B. Peterson will confer the honor upon the reverend father, one of the four New Hampshire priests recently made monsignors by Pope Pius XI.

Fr. Finen, a native of St. John's, New Brunswick, was pastor of St. Paul's Church in Franklin for 13 years before assuming his duties here, and for more than 40 years has been an active religious worker in this state.

Al Smith Feeling 100 Per Cent

New York, Sept. 22—Former Governor Alfred E. Smith says he is "feeling a hundred per cent." Friends today minimized as insignificant the slight heart attack he suffered on hearing of the death of the Rev. John H. Farley, of Washington, D. C., a close friend. Smith declared:

"There's nothing wrong with me."

Conant Sees Students As Better Off in New Era

The college youths of today, although they will have many serious problems, have greater advantages than the students of the previous generation, President James Bryant Conant of Harvard College told 1022 members of the incoming freshman class in his address of welcome.

In his address, President Conant said:

"You are coming to college at a time which is most serious in this country and indeed in many other countries.

"No one can deny that perhaps the only certainty which we can see in the immediate future is uncertainty; however, it may be of some comfort to you to realize that many, many generations of young men have entered other universities in times which were far more serious than this.

"I believe that you, together with your immediate predecessors who are now leaving college, can face many of our problems with more courage and more realism than most of the older men of today. At the moment the problem which confronts the country appears to be that of reconciling an awakened social conscience with our older ideal of the liberty of an individual.

"I do not imagine that a solution can be arrived at in any short time. I feel sure that the way the problem is solved and the value of the ultimate solution will depend largely on the ideals of you young men and your ability to think clearly and without too much emotion.

Loans Afford Wives New Kitchens

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

(This is the 11th of a series of articles explaining the new National Housing Act which, under facilities developed by the Federal Housing Administration, enables home owners in Boston and other communities to obtain inexpensive, easy-to-repay loans for repairing or improving their homes.)

Drab, dingy kitchens make a veritable ordeal of the task of preparing meals.

It makes a woman feel like a kitchen slavey to putter around an unattractive, gloomy room.

Particularly is this true when the kitchen has a poor arrangement of equipment and is lacking in up-to-date facilities for the housewife. Kitchens of this type usually are those that were built years ago, before the modern kitchen improvements were available.

Any old kitchen, no matter how great its shortcomings, can be transformed into a place of beauty and charm, and made comfortable and convenient.

Why not include such a project as your part of the better housing program now under way, availing yourself of Uncle Sam's generosity in advancing the necessary funds with which to bring about this renovation?

NO DOWN PAYMENTS

You can buy a new kitchen now without down payments and on easy monthly terms through credit facilities opened up by the National Housing Act. If your credit is good and your character unimpeachable, if your property is not distressed, then join hands with Uncle Sam and let him guide you into your local bank to make application for such a loan.

If there is not enough natural light, windows can be enlarged or additional ones installed. Darkness can be further dispelled by placing a drop light over the stove or in other places.

The desk of the Housing Editor is daily being swamped by mail from home owners requesting further details about the plan. These queries will be answered daily through these columns.

To Mr. L. A. of Blackstone:

"Depending upon your financial situation, income and the like, you appear to be eligible for a loan under the Federal Housing Administration program. You can learn definitely by applying to your local bank."

Housing Editor

MONEY FOR REPAIRS ONLY

To Mrs. S. H. McM. of Blackstone:

"It will not be possible to borrow under this plan and apply the money to payment of other loans. Whatever money is borrowed in this way must be expended for repairs or modernization. It is not permissible to use the money even for the payment of taxes."

Housing Editor

To N. C. R. of Dorchester:

"In the first place, the loan can only be obtained for improving or repairing real estate. If you are not a property owner and want to borrow for some other purpose, you will have to obtain such a loan through the regular channels. It is not always necessary to be the owner of a piece of property in order to obtain a loan for the repair of that property.

"In this connection, a lessee may obtain a loan for repairing leased property providing that the terms of the lease require that the lessee keep the property in good repair; and further, that the period of the lease extends for at least six months beyond the term of the note. You do not appear, however, to qualify under the latter classification, so that your problem is one to be taken up in the usual manner with some lending institution."

Housing Editor.

DETAILS REQUESTED

To L. D. of Waltham:

"You do not state your case in sufficient details for me to know whether you qualify or not. If you are the owner, it might be possible, all other circumstances being favorable, for you, to obtain a loan for repairs."

Housing Editor

Mrs. H. C. of Boston:

"The amount of the payments and the term of the loan would have to be arranged between you and the banking institution making the loan. If you will go to your nearest local bank, the matter will be thoroughly explained to you."

MYRT AND MARGE

Myrt and Marge . . . And so you didn't know about it . . . That Myrt is the mamma . . . With Marge the daughter . . . In real life . . . With Myrt the former Myrtle Vail . . . Of vaudeville . . . Whom you may recall as the "Vail" . . . Of "Damerel & Vail" . . . If you can course your memory back a quarter century.

George Damerel and Myrtle Vail were shop-shop sweethearts . . . In that old opus "The Umpire" . . . When George was the tenor lead . . . And Myrt only 15 and in the rear row of the chorus . . . Right in front of the drop . . . But it made no difference . . . This variance between show-life's stations . . . And they each took one look . . . And then fell in love.

Of course they were married . . . And two years later were playing opposite each other . . . In "The Merry Widow" . . . With a nurse waiting back in the hotel room . . . With a very recent infant . . . Named Donna . . . In her lap . . . And so you know now that the infant Donna is the present "Marge".

For eight years more the vaudeville couple toured big time . . . Crossing the continent 11 times in this period . . . And then Myrt went into retirement . . . And George, Jr., appeared on the scene . . . With Donna away at a private girls' school.

And then Donna got to be 15 . . . And demanded that she be taken out of school . . . And placed in the act . . . Which was done . . . And Donna became "& Co. . . . at the end of "Damerel, Vail & Co. . . . Touring for two years . . . Until Ma and Dad bought a chicken farm . . . The dream of all troupers.

Chickens proving not so good, the next thing was real estate . . . And Ma and Dad did uqite a bit of dabbling . . . Until the depression crept up . . . Dragging down values . . . And Myrt remembered some old skits she had written . . . And tucked away . . . And she wondered if they wouldn't do for radio . . . And so "Myrt and Marge" came into radio being . . . And ain't everybody glad?

Monday's Radio Personality Portrait will be that of Elmer Herskind, who is "Uncle Elmer" on Sundays and who has a swell typewriter.

This Ear—That Air

By N. F. T.

If a salesman came into this office, or better yet, if a man with something to sell gained admittance to a certain living room out West Roxbury way, and proceeded to become boisterous about such as he had to merchandise, I believe anyone reading this column would agree that tossing him out on his ear would be forgiveable. Thus and so, all bellowing broadcasters, take note!

Frankly, there has been some measure of gratifying elimination in connection with loud-mouthed loudspeaker effrontery. At the same time a certain amount of extraneous shouting remains. Why any advertiser must proceed to sell his wares by the yelling route is far and away beyond my elastic scope of comprehension. Living-room etiquette is quite the same the world over, that is among civilized people. Radio audiences are just plain folks at home. They cannot be addressed as a corner crowd. Why then, in the name of all that is receptive and refined, should sponsors condone shouting? Pipe down and do a more mild-mannered merchandising job is a well-meant recommendation.

FLEETING FLASHES

Movie magnates are proud of putting forth word that Ruth Etting and Phil Baker are to work together, as starred in a film feature called "Gift of Gab," which we will all be viewing before long . . . Mary Pickford is personally picking her supporting cast previous to her "mike" debut on October 3 . . . Mary always allowed that actors who work with a star, automatically help to make or break said star . . . Clap hands for Mary . . . Belle Baker was wanted for a big coast to coast studio show, but had flattering previous propositions from London stage showmen. Alas and alack, Belle begins a London engagement on October 1 . . . My most enjoyable note during a deluge of desk memos, was one saying an actor named Battle had a role in the war ridden "Roses and Drums" drama, heard (WBZ) on Sunday nights.

There are singing Eskimos, take my unofficial word for it or be doubtful. In fact, communications are reported in hand down New York way, asking for a coast to coast spot, featuring some "hot" music and song out of the frigid far north. However, be not surprised if an Eskimo ensemble or gala "Frigid Follies" airing should come our way shortly.

GOOD SCHOOLS, SILLS' PLEA

Poland Spring, Me., Sept. 22—Schools must not be affected by economy measures, Kenneth C. M. Sills of Bowdoin College told a gathering of business men at the 36th annual conference of the New England Council today. President Sills said:

"In a state where, as in Maine, there is a constant shift of population from the country to the cities, it is essential that educational standards in the poorer and more sparsely settled districts be brought up to a decent and reasonable minimum.

"Good schools in the rural communities mean sources of strength to the cities and towns in the future. Poor schools delay the return of a reasonable prosperity and jeopardize the coming generation."

Lights and Shadows

By George Holland

The complete face of the Boston theatrical situation was lifted over night when announcements from various sancti of the drama made known that "Coming Spring" will not play in Boston next week, although it was scheduled originally for two weeks, and that "As Thousands Cheer" will play an additional week at the Shubert Theater, making four in all.

Dorothy Stone

"As Thousands Cheer" is the revue produced by Sam H. Harris, and written by Irving Berlin and Moss Hart. It was booked into Boston for three weeks in the anticipation that three weeks would be sufficient. All the public, by the end of three weeks, would have seen "As Thousands Cheer" —and, by all the public, your chronicler identifies that part of the public which is economically able to pay $3.30 a seat. That is the way New York had it figured.

However, swarms of seat-buyers rushed to the Shubert tickers in an attempt to refute the logic of the bookers. "As Thousands Cheer" will play a fourth week at the Shubert, and the fourth week would be the one beginning a week from Monday.

About "Coming Spring." This was the well-intended play written by Owen Davis, produced by Lee Shubert which bowed in last Monday night at the Plymouth Theater.

"Coming Spring" is as good a piece of conscious play-writing as Boston or any other city will see this season. Mr. Davis will erase a multitude of things from the manuscript by the time another public takes a candid flash at the play.

And the chances are that the play, considerably improved, will please subsequent audiences.

It was really a surprise—the lengthening of the engagement of "As Thousands Cheer." The producer and writers were convinced that Detroit should get the famous revue as soon as possible. There was the consideration of the World Series. The Tigers were nicely planted in boxes for the opening, according to plans.

And the first matinee had been shifted from Wednesday to Tuesday to accommodate those of the Detroit public who would prefer a show to an athletic contest. That is ended, but the melody lingers on. The show will sell out whenever it arrives in Detroit.

Much more important that these items is the news that "Roberta", the Jerome Kern-Otto Harbach operetta, will have its premiere Monday night at the Colonial Theater. This was the outstanding musical hit (with a plot) of the past season in New York. Fay Templeton, Odette Myrtle and Tamara are among the featured principals. "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes" is the song hit. That should be enough.

* * *

"Big Hearted Herbert" will open at the Hollis Monday night . . . "America Sings" will open in Boston, at the Shubert Theater on Monday, October 8, a week before it was booked originally. The Shuberts have cancelled its Philadelphia booking, and Boston wins another premiere . . . Do you care? I hope you do, because the past few have worked out all right, particularly "Life Begins at 8:40."

'TALE OF TWO CITIES' TO BE DRAMATIZED ON SCREEN, WITH STARRING CAST

Max Reinhardt May Be Called to Direct Shakespearean Fantasy for Warners

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Motion Picture Editor Universal Service

Copyright, 1934, by Universal Service, Inc.

Los Angeles, Sept. 22—Prepare to welcome the heroic Sidney Carlton. He'll live again in a dramatic version of "The Tale of Two Cities," to be brought to the screen for Fox by Robert Kane. Bob can get all the data on this Charles Dickens' story by going back in the Fox archives. That old movie of silent days wasn't so bad either. It brought Florence Vidor out of obscurity into fame and gave William Farnum his best screen role.

This "Tale of Two Cities" will have Frank Lloyd as its director and a handpicked star to play the dual role of Sidney Carlton and the Marquie. It's my guess that Warner Baxter, under contract at Fox will be nominated for the part, although today there is a whisper that Kane would try to borrow Ronald Colman or Leslie Howard, both of whom are Englishmen with the proper accent.

Watch Jean Muir's smoke. She'll soar to the top unless the public does the unexpected and doesn't appreciate the ability and the earnestness with which she is approaching her career. Hal Wallis, who has always appreciated the demure little Muir, is giving her the opportunity she has been waiting for as Leslie Howard's leading lady. When Howard returns from Europe he will be starred in "Betsy" based on a play by the late Rida Johnson Young. Frank Borzage will direct them.

All the fuss that's being made over producing the life of Benedict Arnold is enough to make Benny rise right out of his grave and demand a huge salary. Jesse Lasky, Cecil De Mille and Junior Laemmle all had the same idea . . . that of letting America get in on the Arnold lowdown. So the Hays office stepped in and settled the argument. Seems C. B. beat the other two boys to the punch, so to speak, by registering his picture way last March. The De Mille yarn will give Mrs. Arnold the big role, and according to Paramount, it's different.

Shakespeare in the movies! It's what we've all been urging for days. Hal Wallis is planning to produce "A Midsummer Night's Dream" for Warners after the modern interpretation of Max Reinhardt. Hal is expected to make an offer to the gentleman from Salzburg to produce the fantasy so beautifully presented at the Hollywood Bowl. If Warners and Reinhardt can get together on money—I am told Reinhardt comes high—he may produce Warners' "Midsummer Night's Dream." What an opportunity for scenic efforts and camera artistry.

Tutta Berntzen-Rolf is to be Hollywood's newest foreign invasion. She hails from Scandinavia and is due here January 15 on a long term Fox contract. Those who saw Miss Rolf when she was here on her honeymoon four years ago, say she has class with a capital "K," that she is blonde, has dark eyes, and is very pretty. Her husband, Ernst Rolf, was Scandinavia's well known musical comedy director before his death.

Snapshots of Hollywood

FREDERICK PERRY, tennis champion, photographed with FELIX YOUNG, chatting daily with HARRY COHN and visiting Columbia studio means, according to rumor, that Perry is talking movie contract. GRETA NISSEN postcards from Italy where she is touring the country by motor; not a word of the former bridegroom, WELDON HEYBURN. The STEPHEN AMES (RAQUEL TORRES) leaving Friday for New York. WILLY POGANY, famous Hungarian art wizard, working on the Chaplin sets, which means that Charlie is really going to work. CHARLIE FARRELL sends word he will be home the minute his English picture is finished to deny rumors of his divorce from VIRGINIA VALLI. CHARLES LAUGHTON out of the hospital visiting the set of "David Copperfield," in company of his nurse. HARRY JOE BROWN permitted to hold his infant son all the way home from the hospital; SALLY EILERS BROWN, the baby and HARRY JOE all home and happy. That's all today.

Two Who Found Courage

Mae West in Film Tops Met Bill

By ANN AMES

Mae West, the girl with the rolling gait and the roving eye, whose wicked wiles aroused the sleeping dogs of censorship, is back in town at the Metropolitan.

"The Belle of the Nineties," so titled after a controversy that rocked the motion picture industry and involved the city fathers way down in New Orleans, gives the lady of the hour-glass plenty of moments as another of the "bad girls with a good heart," just as many wisecracks and an even more sumptuous wardrobe resplendent with the spangles, feathers and furbelows of the gas-light era.

The story is of Ruby Carter, a burlesque queen, and her romance with the Tiger Kid, a St. Louis boxer. A quarrel is framed by the Kid's manager, and Ruby leaves for a New Orleans gambling palace, run by the double-crossing Ace Lamont.

Her conquest of the Creole city is complete. Diamonds are showered upon her by a Southern gentleman whom she knows no better than she knows Shakespeare. She's the toast of the town, and since he who hesitates is last, according to Ruby, she's smart enough to keep Ace in his place.

Ace talks the Kid into robbing Ruby of her diamonds and while it may be the woman who pays, that's not one of Ruby's pet axioms. With a neat bit of feminine vindictiveness, she evens the score by doping the Kid at the ringside on the night of his 28-round bout with the champion.

Not to be downed by this blow, Ace plans to murder his old sweetheart, burn the gambling house and flee with Ruby. Instead our Miss West ends with the preacher tieing the knot, certainly a concession to the reform element and an unaccustomed but entirely agreeable note of whimsy.

Roger Pryor is the Kid, John Miljan the big gambling menace, and John Mack Brown appears far too briefly as the generous gallant who tosses his diamonds about lightly. Duke Ellington's band adds some grand music to Miss West's songs, the best of which are "My Old Flame," and a strangely interpolated spiritual with Miss West almost getting religion in "Troubled Waters," sung also by a chorus of Negro voices.

On the stage Borrah Minnevitch and his Harmonica Rascals, in the unbelievable rhythms and harmonies only they can achieve with harmonicas, head an elaborate stage presentation, "Indian-Oola." Some grand and hilarious nonsense is contributed by Pansy, the Human Horse, and Elida Ballet, Mariam Lax and Fabien Sevitzky's orchestra contribute to the excellent stage show.

New Program at Orpheum

"Chained," the screen attraction on the new bill at Loew's Orpheum Theater, brings those perfect lovers, Joan Crawford and Clark Gable together again in a romance that is ideal for their talents and their many fans.

In a particularly lavish and handsome background, Edgar Selwyn has set the story of a girl who sacrificed the man she really loved to marry the one to whom she is bound by sympathy. Clark Gable has the role of the handsome young man who comes into her life too late, and Otto Kruger plays the husband, who so gallantly relinquishes her once he learns the truth. Miss Crawford's wardrobe is striking, and an excellent cast, topped by Stuart Erwin and his irresistible wise-cracks, appear in her support.

On the stage the Broadway favorites, Ross and Edwards head the bill in "Delirious Moments," which is all that the name implies, and one of the most hilarious comedy acts in the headline bracket.

Second billing goes to Lee Cuthers and Jean and Joan in a clever and unusual dance presentation. Others on the bill are Millard and Marlin in another highly amusing skit, "Give Me My Quarter," Tyler Mason and the Five Arleys.

An added attraction of the stage program is the appearance of Alice O'Leary, Boston's popular songbird and radio star in song hits of the day.

Shearer Opens in Barrett Film Role

By JOYCE DANA

No romance more tenderly beautiful than that between Robert Browning and Elizabeth Barrett has woven itself into the fabric of literature. Captured forever in some of the loveliest prose and poetry ever penned, it is inevitable that it should come at last to the screen, in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," at Loew's State.

It is inevitable, too, that comparisons will be made, for even into the more remote American cities recently, a great actress, Katherine Cornell, enacted the role in the drama by Rudolph Besier.

We may be more than grateful for the fact that Hollywood has given it, intelligent, sympathetic production, expert direction by Sidney Franklin, and a cast that is flawless from its trio of stars down to the almost human spaniel, Flush.

Over-dramatization and over-sentimentality have been happily avoided. Never once does it falter in its artistry, never once fall back upon either the vulgar or the obvious. The one concession taken of alowing Elizabeth to regain strength enough to walk midway in the picture, is for film purposes a decided improvement, permitting the action to escape from a single set.

Miss Shearer, who pulls many of the plums out of the Hollywood pie, is a most surprising actress. At home in sophisticated comedy, or as another lachrymose lady whose man does her wrong, she summons hitherto unsuspected qualities for the difficult role of Elizabeth. In the very ripples of Cornell's great performance, her sincerity, admirable restraint and sensitive present still another Shearer challenge to top honors in hte Academy awards.

While Fredric March's Browning leans heavily on the breezy side, he's likeable, persuasive and handsome. Charles Laughton, as the morally biased father, contributes another of his outstanding performances. His incestuous incilnations are but vaguely suggested, but there's no glossing over of his sanctimonious fanaticism nor his vicious tyranuy in his large household of sons and daughters.

Film Classic and Variety at Boston

By HARRIS MORGAN

Once more Ranny Weeks and his orchestra lead an interesting and diversified bill at the Keith Boston. Ranny obliges with a number of the songhits of the day, and does his M. C. job in his usual ingratiating manner.

The vaudeville bill is headed by the sensational Tom Lomas troupe from Europe, a group of artists who perform amusingly with a dummy horse and finish their act with a parade on progressive stilts, with the highest performer almost brushing the proscenium arch with his head. Helen Honan gives a number of deft impersonations of stage and screen stars, while Fred Ardath presents his hilarious drunk act.

Other artists on the variety bill are Brown and Cook, Sugar Marcell, Gardner and Kane, and Earl, Jack and Betty.

The new vies with the old on the screen of the Boston this week. For in addition to the thrilling blow by blow pictures of the Ross-McLarnin fight, Nathaniel Hawthorne's fine old American classic, "The Scarlet Letter" is billed, with Colleen Moore and Hardie Albright in the leading roles.

Everyone knows the story of Hester Prynne, who married a man many years her senior and who came to the Bay Colony, leaving her husband in London because of the Black Plague. Dr. Roger Prynne comes to America just in time to see Hester pillodied and sentenced to wear the scarlet "A" upon her breast. Hester has borne a child in his absence, but no one suspects that her lover is the Rev. Arthur Dimmesdale, least of all Hester's husband.

Embittered bythis blow, Dr. Prynne changes his name vowing to seek out the man who had wronged his wife. How the pastor, tormented by his conscience and the stigmas with which Hester and her daughter are burdened, reveals his sin to the straight-laced community, brings this fine old story to a stirring close.

GOLDEN TOUCH IS UPON CLOTHES WHETHER FOR SPORTS OR EVENING

Given in Marriage

—By Adele Garrison—

Avis Arlen, the vamp always, turns her dimpling smile on Dicky in an attempt to win him as an ally in her plan to see Noel alone, before the wedding.

CHAPTER 147

I AM AFRAID my soul was filled with unholy glee as Dicky put the rough query, "What do you think you're doing?" just as I was about to climb into the rear seat of the car at Avis Arlen's suggestion. I knew very well what his next move would be, and although I cared nothing at all for the girl's opinion of me, I was so furious against her for her machinations against Mary's happiness that I was glad of any chagrin or humiliation that might be in store for her.

I had studied her closely enough to know that nothing could pierce her armor of complacement self-conceit except a rebuff of any kind from a man. Slights, enmity, overt or veiled, upon the part of anything feminine she put down to jealousy of her charm, or her success in luring "their men" away from them, and cherished them as tributes to her prowess.

DICKEY NOT SUSCEPTIBLE

That she had deliberately tried to get the front seat with Dicky in order to annoy me I know as well as I did that she would try to stage a flirtation with him upon the drive home, in retaliation for my not sending Noel to escort her to the farm house. But I knew my cue, and I acted upon it promptly.

"Why! I'm getting into the rear seat," I said demurely, but seeing to it that my foot was still upon the running board, not inside the car. "Avis very kindly insists that she isn't as tired as I must be, and says she doesn't mind the front seat at all, so she's putting me into the rear one."

"Oh, you mustn't make me out so impolite, dear Mrs. Graham," Avis cooed, evidently sure of her ground now that she had a masculine listener. "I do want you to be comfortable, but I'm afraid it isn't all unselfishness on my part. I can think of nothing more delightful than sitting beside a driver like you, Mr. Graham, on a night like this. I'm sure there's going to be a moon."

She was dimpling and smiling at him now, and I subdued my risibles with difficulty for Dicky's face reflected his knowledge that I was listening with keen delight. But I was not prepared for the quick movement with which he tossed the big dress box through the rear door and grabbed me by the arm.

"Yet get in where you belong," he growled, and throwing open the front door with his other hand, he fairly boosted me into the seat I had occupied during the drive from the farm.

"Thanks, awfully, for your kind offer, Miss Avis," he said, with a casualness that was almost curt, "but unles it's an exceptional circumstance, I always like to have my back seat driver in the front seat with me. She's quieter that way, and I feel better.

A DEFEAT FOR AVIS

"Permit me to help you in, and I'm sure you'll be more comfortable back here than you would be up in front. My wife is used to my driving, and it doesn't phase her any more, but other feminine friends and relatives generally signalize the end of any trip with me by a fit of hysterics."

If I had had any idea that Avis would be abashed by the rebuff, I immediately found out my mistake. She giggled delightedly as Dicky closed the door upon her, and began to prattle to him before he turned the ignition switch.

"I'm sure you're being terribly unjust to yourself, Mr. Graham," she said. But Dicky just grunted and for the space of at least a mile Avis was silent.

"I'm so afraid I'm putting you out," she said at last, "coming unexpectedly this way. But you won't make any bother for me, will you, Mrs. Graham? I'll just camp down anywhere—a couch in the library, or anywhere. I suppose there'll be a bedroom where I can dress tomorrow, but where I sleep doesn't matter in the least."

A SCHEME TO SEE NOEL?

Was there no end to her effrontery? I visualized her plan perfectly. If she could manage to bunk downstairs she counted upon roaming the lower floor in fetching negligee and securing Noel's presence downstairs for a few minutes by some ruse. But I had a rod in pickle for that attempt—one however which I did not mean the girl should guess as yet.

"I am glad you don't mind where you are put, dear," I said sweetly, "for I'm afraid I can't make you as comfortable as I would like. But you shall have a comfortable place to sleep never fear. That couch in the library isn't such a bard proposition at that."

THE MIDAS TOUCH is upon everything this fall, with about the only exceptions being house dresses and winter coats. And the backers of the silver standard seem to have slunk into obscurity. Whatever glitters has to be gold!

Many daytime dresses are in new crepes and sheer woolens, lighter than a whisper and delightfully cosy, with delicate tracery or bold plaids of gold threads.

Nailheads with their rugged associations and perennial smartness are back in scatter designs. You may have leather jewelry studded with nailheads, the necklace looking much like a collar, and the bracelets for all the world like butcher's cuffs.

Sports woolens checked with gold threads are often very handsome and sporty.

Cocktail hour costumes often adopt that classic sports darling, the shirtmaker frock, and turn it out in gold encrusted treebark grain material, with a gold lame tie.

It is the evening that has the most effulgent golden glow, naturally.

Evening coats, great wraps and mantles, and all manner of dinner and evening dresses shine forth into the dark night. The most gorgeous gold or silver (the silver frost of lame has never been surpassed for beauty) fabrics seen for many a year are out for your inspection.

The absolutely untrimmed cloth of gold gown in the 1934 version is breathtakingly lovely. A pencil slim skirt trails off into a long train (for such formality a train is practically necessary, though as a general fashion it is somewhat out of favor) and the bodice has lightly draped shoulders that tie in a huge bow, covering the entire front. The bow ends in turn are wound around the waist as a belt and trail off in back to join the train. Not a jewel nor a hint of contrasting trimming disturbs the perfection of the whole.

Little Girl's Jumper Frock

Some people may have had the idea that a jumper is just a jumper, but here is a frock that proves to the contrary. It is certainly a jumper, but one might call it a jumper plus—plus, a cunning little blouse with perky sleeves and youthful collar. Notice the diagonal seams of the jumper and the way it pretends to close in a point smartly marked with three buttons. You can make the little dress of plain or patterned material — of wool, silk or cotton. You see it in a plaid—now think of it in plain navy blue jersey with a bright red belt and red buttons—and a white blouse, of course.

Pattern 9088 may be ordered only in sizes 4, 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14. Size 10 requires 1½ yards 54 inch fabric and 1¼ yards 36 inch contrasting.

DayCreamCan Erase Wear and Tear

By Juliet Shelby

NONE OF US likes to feel our skin aging, shriveling up into wrinkles and losing the full vigor of youth. It makes us feel old, even if we aren't. But it is quite the natural course of events when you consider the hectic lives we live.

Aging skin cells need an invigorating, effective treatment to keep them full of the vitality of youth, especially if you are one of the unwise beauties who indulge in toll-taking habits. Some aid must be given it if you want to keep "the dewy bloom of youth." But always remember that no cream or lotion made can preserve or recapture that bloom without the aid of good health. It takes rich bloodstreams and mental ease to keep you young.

So when I tell you of a cream—an expensive one—that will do much through its organic compound to keep your skin fresh-looking and lovely, do not expect miracles unless you are persistent in the treatments and given to healthy habits.

This cream is a day cream. First cleanse and tone your skin. Smooth the cream over the skin. Do not rub it in or massage it. Just smooth—instantly the skin absorbs the cream, and you can feel the difference. It is moist, humid-fresh and dewy. It counteracts the wear and tear of the day and is an admirable base for make-up. It is not for young things, only for skins that are aging or showing the effect of strain and illness. Mind you, I said it was expensive.

You may learn the name of this cream and where it is sold by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Juliet Shelby, Boston Evening American, Boston, or by phoning Miss Shelby, Liberty 4000.

Cocoa Butter

Question: Will you please tell me what to do to make the bust larger?

D. S. P., Lynn

Answer: Light massage regularly every night with warmed cocoa butter will help it out. Cocoa butter can be bought at any drug store and there is a new cocoa butter cold cream on the market that is excellent for this purpose. If you are underweight a general gain in weight in addition to exercise is necessary to make the bust plumper. Be sure to wear a well-fitting, uplift type of brassiere.

DeliciousCod Recipes

By MARTHA LEE

FOR THOSE of us who still eat substantial breakfasts, or who eat substantial breakfasts on Sundays, why not get acquainted with the numerous and delicious dishes to be made with codfish?

Cod is not only an important food fish, but it is extremely good, and had an economic place in the early New England fisheries, which were of interest in the development of Colonial America. The wealth of many of the Colonists of New England lay in the fishing industry. How important was the cod may be seen by this quotation from an early history by Captain John Smith:

"In March, April, May and half June there is cod in abundance; in May, June, July and August, mullet and sturgeon; and the end of August, September, October and November you may have cod again."

Of course in addition there were mackerel, haddock, halibut, lobsters, clams, shrimp, etc., but to the New England Colonists cod was one of the most important fishes, not only from a dietetic but a commercial point of view.

Here are some fine breakfast as well as dinner dishes of cod.

CREAMED SALT CODFISH

(4 servings)
1 cup salt codfish, shredded
1 cup medium white sauce
(make without salt)

Shred the fish into small flakes with the fingers; place in a saucepan; cover with cold water and heat slowly to the boiling point. Repeat using fresh water if the fish is hard and salt. Omit the salt in making the white sauce; reheat the fish in the sauce, adding salt if necessary.

CODFISH HASH

1 cup salt codfish
2½ cups diced potato
½ tablespoon butter
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 egg

Wash the fish and cut or shred into small pieces. If fish is hard and salt, soak in cold water for four hours or more. Put the fish and diced potatoes in a saucepan; cover with boiling water; cook until the potatoes are tender (about 10 minutes). Drain; return to the stove uncovered for a few minutes to permit the steam to escape. Remove from the stove; mash thoroughly; add butter, pepper, and unbeaten egg; beat vigorously until the mixture is light and creamy. Spread the mixture evenly over the surface of a hot well-greased frying pan. Cook slowly until a brown crust forms on the bottom. Fold like a plain omelet; invert on a hot platter. Garnish with parsley.

CODFISH CAKES

Follow the recipe for Codfish Hash. When the mixture is ready for the frying pan, form it into flat cakes with floured hands. Brown on both sides in the hot fat.

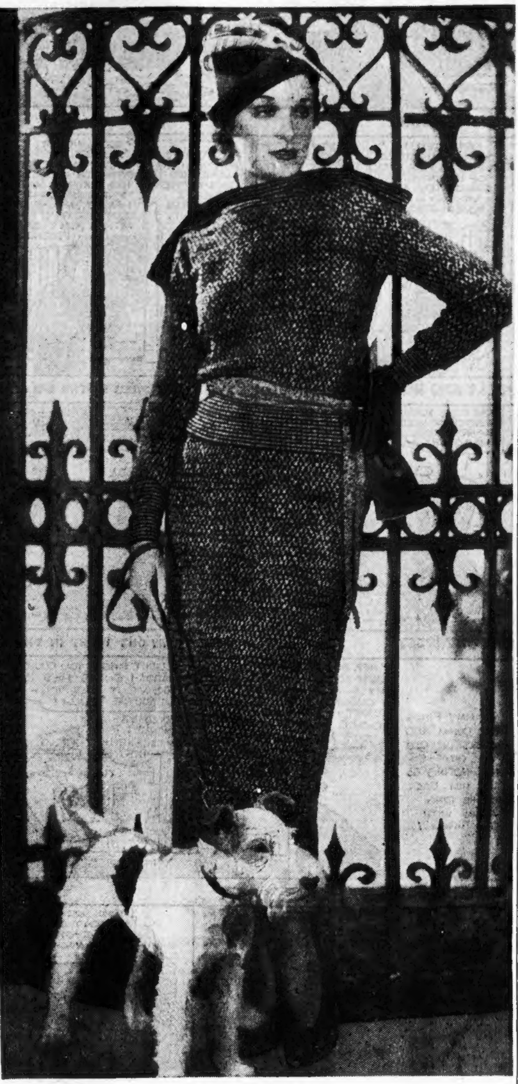
A High Hat With Two-Piece Knit



By Gail Patrick

"SWEATERED and skirted—and ready for fall"!

That's the song many Hollywood's younger players are singing today, although the California sun is still hot enough to toast right through the swankiest sun suit on any of the beaches.

I have always considered sports clothes the most becoming, most appropriate type of thing for the colder months. And for the free, informal atmosphere of Hollywood there is really nothing smarter.

My frock is a two-piece affair with a very plain skirt and an amusing jumper. The neckline is a cross between "crew" and "bateau" and the sleeves are long with real sweater cuffs. There is a narrow belt of the black and white wool, and if I feel the need of a bit of color I can add a bright red or green suede belt.

My hat is an Oxford grey hair felt, made in a very high crowned effect with a perky quill across the front.

Reasons for Retaining Trump Suit Entries

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

The factors that enter into the proper timing of the exhaustion of the adverse trumps are many and complex. An experienced teacher approaches the subject by explaining to her pupils the general principle that when you have a reasonable command of the trump suit in length and strength together with side high or long cards which stand in danger of being trumped you draw the adverse small trumps at the earliest opportunity.

There is one situation that is often forgotten in compiling such a list, because of its very simplicity. Trump leads must be sometimes deferred in order to use the to trumps for entry and re-entry in exactly the way that the Aces and Kings of side suits are utilized.

In the following deal the two hands appear to be plentifully supplied with side entries, but actually it is entry-poor and the maximum result on the hand was obtained by Declarer only through his realization that eventually his side entries would be exhausted and he would be wholly dependent upon the trump suit.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	North
	♠K 10 7 4 ♡K 9 8 6 3 ◇9 5 ♣J 6
West ♠8 2 ♡A 7 4 ◇Q 8 7 6 ♣A Q 9 5		East ♠J 6 5 ♡Q 10 5 ◇K 10 3 2 ♣8 7 2
	South ♠A Q 9 3 ♡J 2 ◇A J 4 ♣K 10 4 3

South played a contract of two spades. West opened the spade eight, North played the four, East played the five, and South won with the nine.

Declarer planned to try to establish and make the heart suit. If this effort failed, he would have to fall back on the clubs. In either event, the principal entries for the development of the hand lay in spades. Hence no trump leads could be made yet.

South led the heart two, and when West played low Dummy's King won. It was now a close question whether to start the clubs, but Declarer elected to lead a second round of hearts instead. This trick was won by West's Ace, and West returned the spade two, on which East played the Jack and South the Ace.

At this juncture it seemed probable to Declarer that the remaining hearts were split and that a ruff would establish the suit. But what was he to use for entry and re-entry to Dummy? As he was playing a low contract he decided to adopt the safe policy of developing his two club tricks by straight leads away from the King even though in so doing he must lose two club tricks.

South led a small club, which West won with the Queen, and now West, however he played, could not prevent Declarer from making three-odd. Had West failed at this juncture to get busy and establish a diamond trick for the defense, South actually would have made four-odd.

DAUGHTERS OF VENUS

By Robert Terry Shannon

SYNOPSIS

In the dining room of a Los Angeles hotel, Juliet Rankin is approached by Denton Terhune, well known San Francisco lawyer. Attracted by Juliet's beauty and aloofness, he asks if he might chat with her. Terhune introduces Mary to Madame Hubert, wealthy beauty expert, whom he describes as the oddest and most interesting woman in Los Angeles, and her handsome, young manager, Thomas O'Hara. O'Hara is worried over the case of Mrs. Gottlieb who is in a serious condition at the beauty institute due to her heart being too weak to stand the ether administered during performance of a facial operation.

Madame Hubert compliments Juliet on her beauty and offers her a position. Madame claims O'Hara fears Juliet is after his job. He leaves in anger. Juliet wonders why O'Hara affects her so strangely. Then it dawns upon her that he resembles her dead sweetheart. Madame takes Juliet to the institute with hope that she may be able to help her with Mrs. Gottlieb. Dr. Von Guerdon, Mrs. Gottlieb cannot live much longer. Juliet hears the dying woman calling her erring husband for whose love she had undergone the dangerous operation. Juliet sends for Gottlieb and upbraids him for his conduct.

CHAPTER V

Gottlieb gave his face a circular mopping. The smell of perfume from his handkerchief reached Juliet and at the same moment he became aware of it himself. With a look of mingled surprise and disgust he dropped the scented thing into the moderne wastebasket.

"Where," he asked, with a grotesque little touch of dignity, "is my wife? Please take me to her at once."

Juliet went down the corridor with Gottlieb trotting at her heels. At the proper door she stood aside and let him enter. The nurse, who was reading a book, jumped up.

"He can't come in here!"

But Gottlieb already was in the room—more, he was on the side of the bed and his short arms were trying to embrace the still form under the white covers.

"Liebchen . . . liebchen . . . liebchen . . ."

It was not, strictly speaking, a miracle but undeniably Mrs. Gottlieb—at the sound of that loved voice—opened her eyes. Juliet and the nurse, both watching, saw a faint tide of color creep back to the ashen face. The lips moved stiffly, but only Mr. Gottlieb was near enough to hear what they uttered.

"If it's her husband, I suppose he has the right," said the nurse guardedly to Juliet; "not that it matters now."

Juliet, without a reply, left the room. There was nothing more she could do to aid the stricken couple. Already she had done more than Von Guerdon with all of his Heidelberg training and science.

There was the sound of voices down the corridor and moving towards them Juliet came to partly open door, which revealed a sumptuous office. The furniture inside was lavish but masculine.

Evidently this was O'Hara's sanctum, for he was planted at his desk while Mme. Hubert quarreled at him unceasingly in a gloomy voice. There was a glimpse, too, of Von Guerdon, slim and meticulous, beside a long open window with a rich Egyptian cigarette in his fingers. Juliet entered.

Hostility glared out at her from under O'Hara's black brows. "Well?" he demanded.

"Well, if Mrs. Gottlieb has to die it's going to be in her husband's arms, because that's where she is now," said Juliet quietly. She included the three of them in her steady ironic gaze. "I don't know whether I've saved you any money or not."

"I don't know either," returned O'Hara, "but I wanted to get Gottlieb here myself in the first place."

"Well, you've had your own way and you should be satisfied," Madame Hubert told him, shrugging. "I hope your idea turns out all right—for once."

"Certain to!" chipped in Von Guerdon, with a flick in his voice.

This was the first time Juliet realized there was a tension between Von Guerdon and O'Hara. Again she was astonished at the inharmony prevailing among the heads of this astonishing institute.

"I don't know what you mean by that crack, Von Guerdon—and I don't care, because I'm through here!" O'Hara said. "I'm not an authority on medicine or surgery and neither is Madame Hubert or any of the manicure girls or hairdressers. We've not had any of the advantages of Heidelberg—fortunately. But when you take a healthy woman like Mrs. Gottlieb in her early fifty's and send her to the grave because you trim up her jowls—well—!"

MEDICAL FACT

Von Guerdon smiled slightly.

"My dear O'Hara," he said coolly, "it's an established fact that three-tenths of one per cent of all women over fifty under general anaesthetics fail to recover. That is a universal fact and no odiom can possibly attach to the surgeon."

The tall, blonde physician, with his perfect classical profile, turned to Juliet with a faintly malicious smile.

"Don't take too seriously what Mr. O'Hara says," he remarked, with a veneer of pleasantness. "It was he, I believe, who selected me as surgeon-in-chief—out of two hundred applicants."

The white uniformed nurse appeared in the doorway. Von Guerdon's brows lifted a trifle. "Dead?"

"Oh no, Doctor, but I wish you'd come at once." The voice was agitated. "She's wanting to get up and go home. Her husband keeps talking to her—and the pulse is almost normal!"

Madame Hubert's black eyes suddenly became so alive that they seemed to snap and crackle.

"Wasn't I right though!" she cried shrilly. "I knew from the beginning that that Miss Rankin was smarter than both you men put together. It has always been so—my genius for choosing the right people at the right time!'

The next day, and for many thereafter, the Institute was a world of fascination for Juliet.

In the first place Madame Hubert had established her in a mauve-toned office on the top floor. Not a skimpy business cubicle but a palatial room with silk curtains stirring in the breeze, a velvet carpet, a small, feminine desk and a settee with graceful chairs to match, all done in expensive and subdued fabrics and lacquered design. In the ordinary world of business no such offices exist; they are to be found only in motion picture sets and the fertile dreams of interior decorators.

But this intense flare of mode moderne applied not only to Juliet's office but to the whole Institute.

BEAMS WITH GOOD WILL

Wherever possible, daylight had been rigidly excluded and substituted by a softened glow of amber and gold bulbs—a vague and flattering light, which, coupled with the subtle perfume in the air and the soft carpets and the deference of all attendants, contrived to bless Madame Hubert's patrons with a sense of importance and the illusion that human beauty was indeed attainable within these magic walls.

Madame Hubert, discussing Juliet's employment, had fairly beamed with good will. In the matter of salary her generosity was surprising.

"I pay the best wages in the profession and I charge the highest prices," she explained. "My people are all the best, clients and employes both. O'Hara told you I was a miser, but that was only his irritation speaking. He gets a thumping good income and so will you if you prove worth it. Meanwhile I want you to inspect everything and find out what it is all about."

So Juliet's trim figure slipped in and out of divers suites and departments, upstairs and down and around strange corners into a bewildering existence of facial creams and ointments, reducing cabinets, masseuses, hair-cutters, manicurists, wavers, cosmeticians, and an army of uniformed hostesses moving about with a procession of silver tea-trays, magazines and expensive cigarettes.

Juliet was, of course, familiar with beauty parlors but nothing so enormous and impressive as Madame Hubert's.

And, strangest of all, hordes of young and lovely women who had emerged from their morning baths triumphant with all of Nature's unimprovable beauty, flocked here in the firm faith that some mysterious art would improve upon perfection.

In all of these departments word had spread, as it always does, that a new important executive had joined the firm. Juliet was welcomed everywhere with reverence because she was from that kingdom of heaven called the Front Office.

By Horace Walpole Frisby

I have long had in mind a surprise for the American people. I am now ready to spring it, and invite 50,000,000 people to join me and also join my secret society, which I will tell you in confidence is to be known as the H. on E. B. & S. of N. A. Get it? All right, I'll explain. It means the "Heaven on Earth Brotherhood and Sisterhood of North America." The object of the society will be to provide a sinking fund, speed up justice, eliminate taxes, raise wages, make the workers and the employers "friendly enemies," if I may be permitted to coin a phrase. Each member will be required to bring in forty-nine new members by Tuesday night or pay forfeit of fifty cents and a jar of cold fried chicken. That's as far as I'll go right now—but if one and all will see me about 7:30 tonight and give me the pass word I shall be delighted to explain our little mutual insurance proposition. Au revoir but not good bye.

Bill Terry Defines His Attitude Toward The Game of Baseball ↕ Adams Prepares to Dissect the Bruins Holy Cross Pre-view

By AUSTEN LAKE

Austen Lake

AS ONE WHO, IN THE PAST, has unwound many a yard of typewriter ribbon about Bill Terry's sullen surliness toward us inkstained slaves of the press, I am now convinced of his sincere repentance. I wish to return loving forgiveness for Bill's past arrogance. Because he has just received me tenderly in an uptown hotel lobby and bared his soul for inspection.

"I am a money man," confessed William, "I am in the game for nothing else but. And if, at this minute, I could be sure of an income half as large as I am making in baseball, I would kiss the game goodbye with never a backward glance."

Now, I am convinced of Terry's honesty. Yet it is hard to conceive of a man who is receiving $35,000 for six months of pleasant play, including a paid up vacation in Florida each spring, giving it up to assume a life of menial drudgery the year around. And I said so.

"Well," said William, "I am sick to death of travelling, of being annoyed, of squatting around hotels and looking at menus."

"You are Bill Terry, with your name in news scoreheads," said I, "your classic figure and handsome mug are always on the sport pages. The crowds breathe your name like a prayer. Does that not mean anything?"

And William said "No," not a darn thing.

YET I WONDER. Here is the batting leader of the National League and its best fielding first baseman, who says, "Baseball is a business with me, not a game. I could quit it tomorrow with no regrets."

Still . . . only last October when he made the final putout of the World Series, it was this same Terry who uttered a joyous whoop and ran, patting and hugging his teammates to the Washington locker room.

"O, I got a kick out of that," he deprecated, "like I would if I sold a big bill of goods for my firm."

You should know that Terry is one of the few major leaguers who works hard through the fall and winter months between seasons, starting on his sales promotion job with the Standard Oil Company in the South immediately after the league ends, and continuing to the start of the training period.

No hunting and fishing, no winter golf or handball. Just earnest, honest toil between the hours of 8 a. m. and 5 p. m.

TODAY IN NEW YORK CITY, C. F. Adams, Frank Patrick and Art Ross of the Bruins' official family are sitting down in the National Hockey League board of governers' meeting, to spill their tale of woe.

Perhaps, before the end of the day, blocked by the Garden's monopoly of Boston indoor ice and the sky-scraping rental demand, they will start to dismember their team and lease it, piecemeal, to the other clubs of the circuit.

The Garden has not shaved its original demand for $80,000 rent ($3300 a night). It will let the Arena for $55,000 ($2500 a night). Recently Adams asked for a rent quotation for the Boston Cubs, and he was told:

"We will not quote for the Cubs until the Bruins have signed their new lease. If the Bruins don't play, there will be no ice at the Garden this winter."

And what, prithee, if there is no hockey at the Garden, will there be that justifies keeping the big soup tureen open? Dog racing? And what then, if the Suffolk County folks vote "No," next November?

A little wrestling, a little boxing, a circus and a rodeo, and in between times nights and a vast, dark emptiness, with the only sound the grinding noise of the Garden eating its overhead off.

WHY AM I FIGHTING THE Bruins' private rent battle? I am not! I am interested only in seeing the Boston public, which has supported hockey loyally, be insured of its favorite winter sports dish.

The Bruins lost heavily during a bad season last year, when they paid the Garden 25 per cent of the gate, an amount that averaged $1900 a night.

They have offered to give the Garden 25 per cent of the first $200,000 grossed next winter, 40 per cent of the next $50,000 and 50 per cent of the next $50,000—which would mean $90,000 (or nearly $4000 a night) if the gross reaches 300 grand.

But the Garden wants a flat rental, plus the option of 40 per cent. Their attitude is "take it or leave it." And so, facing the prospect of operating at a loss before the season starts, Adams is determined to leave it. He offered to let the Garden lease the team and run it at its own risk, but this was flatly rejected.

FITTON FIELD AT WORCESTER, where Holy Cross is unveiling the New England football season today, is a convention spot for college coaches of this region. Eddie Casey and his hybrid staff from Harvard, Tuss McLaughry of Brown, Joe McKenney of B. C., Pop Warner of Temple, Andy Kerr of Colgate, Joe McGee of Providence College, Arthur "Dutch" Bergman of Catholic U., all of whom later will send teams against the Purple's steamroller, and are taking advantage of an idle day, have made ticket reservations, eager for a pre-view of this much publicized team.

FRANK NAVIN, OWNER OF THE Detroit Tigers, is gambling. He is spending $25,000 to bring the old lumber from the wooden fight bowl in which Floyd Gibbons and Jack Dempsey used to stage boxing shows at Benton Harbor, Mich.

This material is going into the outfield stands to seat an additional 17,000. But if the series is settled in five games or less, he stands to take a loss, since the clubs' share in the first four contests is trifling and the players' "cut" eats up practically everything.

Best example of this gamble was the case of Colonel Jake Ruppert in 1927, 1928 and 1932, when the Yankees settled the series in four games, and the club lost money despite the huge crowds.

The 'Prof' Gives Blackboard Lecture to Eagles on Grid Fundamentals

The professor is one coach who is not afraid to reveal his football tactics. The play is run from a non-balanced line. football opener with St. Anselm's of Manchester, N. H

Rex Kidd, Len Kuziora, Vin Dougherty and Joe Yablonski, not one of whom had played previous varsity football, handled themselves like old-time veterans.

They produced a touchdown within four minutes of the start on a steady march down the field, Yablonski crashing over for the first touchdown of the Eastern

The sophomores added another touchdown in the second period after Walter Janiak, Purple speed merchant, had replaced Dougherty. Janiak ran over from the six-yard line. The sophomores then gave way to the varsity backfield, Britt, Hobin, Callan and Janiak

Hobin produced the third score late in the second period, shooting over from the one-yard line.

FIRST PERIOD

Capt. Joe Grogan of St. Anselm's won the toss and chose to defend the west goal. In just exactly 10 plays, which took considerably less than four minutes, the sophomore Holy Cross backfield had scored the first touchdown of the New England season

Spirida kicked off to Joe Yablonski, who went down on the H. C 35-yard line. Len Kuziora raced around his own left end behind perfect interference and was downed after a run of 27 yards on the Saints' 37-yard line

Dougherty and Yablonski reeled off two first downs in succession, bringing the ball to the Saints' 12-yard line. Four plays later Yablonski crashed over center for the touchdown. Harvey missed the placement for the point. Score—H. C. 6, St. Anselm's 0.

Captain Harvey of Holy Cross kicked off to Billy Meisel, who ran from his own seven to the 41-yard line before being downed by Dougherty. Flanagan, Holy Cross guard, intercepted a St. Anselm's pass, but H. C. lost the advantage immediately when Yablonski fumbled, Richardson recovering

Holy Cross was set back in its own back yard when on Spirida's punt to Kidd the Purple was penalized 15 yards to its 30-yard line for clipping. The Purple ripped off two first downs to midfield, Yablonski making both of them, and then he kicked into the Saints' end zone for atouchback

St. Anselm's fumbled but recovered on its own six-yard line, John Spirida got away a punt of almost 35 yards from behind his own goal line, Dougherty running it back 3 yards to the H. C. 37-yard line. St. Anselm's got a break when Ralche broke through and blocked Dougherty's attempted pass, recovering it on the H. C. 30-yard line. Walter Janiak replaced Dougherty at left halfback for H. C.

In just three plays, St. Anselm's lost 17 yards, Spirida kicking finally to Kidd who was downed on his 22-yard line. Janiak made 7 yards at right tackle and then 5 more for a first down as the period ended.

SCORE—First Period—H. C. 6; ST. ANSELM 0.

SECOND PERIOD

Shortly after the opening of the second period, Holy Cross paraded 55 yards down the field for its second touchdown, Walter Janiak, Purple sprint ace, member of the U. S. track team that traveled through Europe this summer, shooting around his own right end for six yards and the touchdown. Kuziora and Janiak alternated in carrying the ball, making four first downs on the way to the goal line. Buzz Harvey place-kicked the goal. Score—H. C. 13, St. Anselms 0.

Holy Cross inserted its first string backfield of Eddie Callan, quarterback; Jim Hobin, left halfback, and Ed Britt, fullback, Janiak remaining in the game.

Stanselms produced its first down on an 18-yard forward pass to midfield, Connerton to Knowles. Another pass by Connerton was intercepted by Luciano on the H. C. 35 yard line.

Janiak broke through tackle for seven yards and then Britt burst around right end for 19 yards to the Saints 30-yard line. Britt broke away again for 15 yards and the seventh first down for the Purple in the period. Britt was kicked in the face and was replaced by Nosek.

A Hobin to Tom O'Connor pass gave Holy Cross a first down on the six-yard line an dwhen St. Anselms interfered with Harvey on the end of a pass in the end zone, Holy Cross had the ball on the Saints' 1 yard line. Hobin went through center on the next play for a touchdown. Harvey kicked the goal by placement as the period ended. Holy Cross 20, St. Anselms 0.

Score Second Period—Holy Cross 14, St. Anselms 0.

Score End Half—Holy Cross 20, St. Anselms 0.

KENNEDY STOPS FIERMONTE IN 4TH

By Associated Press

Hollywood, Calif., Sept. 22—Fashionable Enzo Fiermonte's campaign for the world's heavyweight championship came to a sudden and dismal ending within 15 minutes after it had opened with the fanfare of filmland.

The estranged husband of Mrs. Madeline Force Astor Dick Fiermonte was knocked out in the fourth round of his initial ten round match last night by Les Kennedy ring-worn heavyweight of Long Beach, Calif.

The slow moving Kennedy, whose recent ring record reads like the ledger of a defunct business, hooked a left to the unguarded, finely chiseled chin of Fiermonte. Down went the Italian, with his knees and hands propped under him. Fiermonte listened to Referee George Blake's count. At five he shook his head, but at ten he still was in the same grotesque position. Before that there were many boos from the crowd as the two milled ineffectively.

Half an hour later, as he stood dejected and alone outside the back door of the small wooden auditorium, Fiermonte, who had turned his back on high society and millions for another fling at fisticuffs said

> "I was not in condition. Two weeks, it is not time enough to prepare after two years of not fighting. I shall go back into training. That title, I shall win yet. I was not hurt tonight. I could hear the count of nine, but my legs, they were too tired to lift me up."

The bout was staged with all the Hollywood trimmings. Huge search lights criss-crossed in the skyland lighted the street in front of the arena as on premier night at the theaters.

Max Baer Peps Up Oregon Grid Boys

Lynn Leads Brockton High; Wakefield Holds Malden

Keith Memorial Stadium, Sept. 22—Lynn General Electric Apprentices were headed toward the biggest upset of the early season football campaign here this afternoon when they ended their first half with a 6 to 0 lead over Brockton high.

In the second period a pass from Quarterback Dan Campen was snared by Fullback John Benson, who raced over for the touchdown A try for point after touchdown by Attis failed

Six completed forward passes gave the Lynn team a total of 45 yards gain through the first half

The Lynn boys were on the short end of the odds before today's game, with the veteran Brockton group expected to romp through the test successfully

Medford Trounces New Bedford, 19 to 0

Medford High Stadium, Sept. 22—Medford's football team was away to an encouraging start here this afternoon as it trounced New Bedford Vocational, 19 to 0.

Coach Eddie Brooks' Medford machine was impressive in the debut. The line had a great charge, the backs knew their assignments, and blockers cleaned out nicely to keep Medford in the lead all the way.

A touchdown and point after in the first period, a touchdown in the second and another in the third periods gave Medford its winning margin.

Stoneeham-Milton Tied at Half

Stonehame High Athletic Field, Sept. 22 — Stoneham and Milton high football teams fought to a scoreless tie at the half here this afternoon in the opening game of the season

Cerat scored in the opening period and again in the second period. Both tries for points failed.

Krol Gives Waltham Lead Over Rindge

Waltham High Athletic Field, Sept. 22—A touchdown scored by left halfback Krol early in the second period gave Waltham High a 6 to 0 lead over Rindge Tech here this afternoon. Tony Zeno's try for the point after failed.

Light Woburn '11' Outplays Cantabs

Woburn High Athletic Field, Sept. 22—Outweighed ten pounds per man by Cambridge Latin gridmen, the courageous Woburn High eleven fought to a 12 to 0 lead over the Cantabs at halftime here this afternoon. Cambridge was the pregame favorite.

Wakefield Holds Malden Scoreless

Malden Stadium, Sept. 22—A fighting Wakefield high eleven threw a scare into the Malden high team this afternoon when it threatened to score, and then held Malden scoreless at the half.

A series of passes by Wakefield carried it down to the Malden 10-yard ribbon. Then a bad pass lost 25 yards, and the scoring threat was ended. Wakefield was dangerous throughout the second stanza Captain John Hall flashed at fullback for Wakefield.

Everett Rolls Over Warwick

Everett Stadium, Sept. 22—The powerful Everett High eleven rolled to a 20 to 0 lead at halftime in its opening game, against Warwick High from Rhode Island, here this afternoon

Dick Conley, young Everett halfback, scored the first touchdown, from the nine yard stripe. Sammy Gentile kicked the point after.

The Manchester Pros of Manchester, N. H., are not at all backward in claiming that they will provide the Boston Redskins with stern competition as the two teams clash at Athletic Field, Manchester, tomorrow afternoon, at 2 30.

The Pros are well studded with former college players, from Boston College, Dartmouth, Bates and New Hampshire, and are not one bit abashed by the fact that the Redskins look to be the class of the National Pro Football League.

Lone Star Dietz intends to start the same team which opened against the Pittsburgh Pirates last week.

He has finally decided that Frank Bausch and Doug Wycoff will share the fullback berth and Orien Crow and Swede Ellstrom the center duties.

PENALTY SHOT VOTED BY N. H. L

By Associated Press.

New York, Sept. 22—Adoption of a penalty shot and a reduction club and individual salary limits for the season were the high spots of today's session of the emi-final annual meeting of the National Hockey League.

The penalty shot has been in general use on the Pacific Coast. The rule will apply any time a team is making a shot for the goal when, in the referee's opinion, what would have been a sure shot is fouled

The club salary limit was reduced from $65,000 to $62,500 for the season, and the individual player's limit from $7500 to $7000.

Action is expected to be taken this afternoon on the disposition of the franchises of the Chicago Black Hawks and the Boston Bruins. These clubs have been having difficulty in obtaining rinks,

INTRA-VARSITY GAME AT B. C. TODAY

Boston College's 70 football hopefuls engaged in a regular four period intra-varsity game today in a final test before coach Joe McKenney announces his last and decisive cut which will lop off about 15 from the varsity contingent.

The Maroons, those who are assured of their places on the squad, and the Golds those who have to show something to be retained, were to meet.

A marked seriousness is in evidence at the more recent practice sessions with McKenney expecting more from his charges than before. Yesterday afternoon the coach drilled extensively in a forward passing attack, teaching the boys three new plays and stressing the importance of the aerial weapon in repeated formations.

Another feature of this session was the time devoted to teaching the lads their correct positions on the kickoff. Emphasis was also laid on the particular man that each Eagle is supposed to take care of on the offensive and defensive phases of the kickoff.

Paul Sweeney, sophomore end candidate, who made a great name for himself on the gridiron at B. C. high, will report back for practice Monday, it was revealed today.

O'Dea to Return for Illinois Tilt

Madison, Wis., Sept. 22 (INS)—"Charles J. Mitchell," the missing Pat O'Dea, University of Wisconsin football immortal who vanished 20 years ago is coming back to attend the homecoming game with Illinois Nov. 17

The famous fullback, whose drop kicking and punting in 1897, 1898 and 1899, have become legendary, was believed to have been killed in the World War while a member of an Anzac regiment.

He adopted the assumed name, O'Dea disclosed recently in California, to shed his identity as a football hero.

TURNESA TAKES LEAD IN EASTERN OPEN WITH 73-68-141

Whirlwind of West Whirls to Eastern Open Lead -:- -:- Pair of Runners-Up Who Seek to Check the 'Tornado'

Ky Laffoon, the "Denver Tornado," uses an iron to get out of the rough with such deadly effect as to sweep into the lead at the end of the first round in the Eastern Open. He shot a 34-34 for a 68, making it the 24th time since June he has broken 70 in tournament competition.

Paul Runyan of White Plains, defending champion, shows his bag of tricks and his little winged pellets which enabled him to shoot a 70, two strokes behind the Western whirlwind. But Paul is hopeful he will be able to pull some real shots out of his bag in the second round today to overhaul Laffoon.

Rainbow Evens Series By Beating Endeavour

the pres boat, said they were ignorant of the reason for the protest, but from the Argo it appeared Rainbow might not have answered the challenger's luff as she passed Endeavour to windward while overtaking her.

So far as was known there was no contact between the two boats such as led to the disqualification of Lord Dunraven's British challenger Valkyrie 3rd in 1895. But Rainbow may have violated the rule governing overtaking yachts, thus committing a [illegible].

Rainbow made the [illegible] triangular course in 3 [illegible] minutes 38 seconds, only [illegible] 37 seconds over the record set by Endeavour in Tuesday's race. Subtracting the 25 seconds the defender lost before crossing the line would give her a time of 3 1[illegible] 13 and an average of a [illegible] over 9 knots for the race.

The official finish was: Rainbow 2 55 38, Endeavour 2 [illegible].

FIRST SINCE 18983

Although there apparently was no actual contact of the two boats, Rainbow may be in the position of having committed a [illegible].

It was the first protest in America's cup races since the disqualification of Lord Dunraven's challenger Valkrie 3rd in the second race of the 1895 series.

Both Endeavour and Rainbow constented to resume the series Monday.

After working well to weather of the course Rainbow began to bear down on Endeavour.

An observation by an Argo officer at 1·45 showed she had wiped out most of the Britisher's lead, and that there was little to choose between the two.

Three minutes later Rainbow had definitely passed the invader although slightly to weather of a true course to the second marker.

The wind was freshening and a sea was kicking up.

BREEZE FRESHENS UP

John Parkinson had held the helm on Rainbow through most of the second 10 miles but Vanderbilt took it back as Rainbow headed back for home.

The breeze had freshened to 12 knots, but the sea was not kicking up badly, the defender riding along easily. Endeavour, however, did not seem to like the weather and was pitching and plunging.

The British boat seemed to be going faster, though, and closing the gap on Rainbow. A squall was making up in the northwest.

Endeavour still trailed by several boat lengths at 2 30 but appeared to be walking up to weather of the defender.

It was apparent Sopwith was attempting to do the same thing to Vanderbilt the latter had done to him on the second leg.

ENDEAVOUR COMES FAST

A sight by the Argo's officers showed Rainbow leading by 300 yards at 2 35, but also that Endeavour had cut 100 yards from the previous lead in 10 minutes.

At 2·45 it was estimated the two racing sloops had about three miles to go to the finish. Rainbow's margin there was figured as about 275 yards. Endeavour was gaining with every minute.

Five minutes later Rainbow appeared to be holding her lead as they bore down on the finish line. Both were making excellent time but already were past the hour at which a new record could be set.

Endeavour, despite a 45 seconds' delay in crossing the line after the starting signal, reeled off the ten miles against an eight-knot breeze in one hour, 25 minutes, 26 seconds only 8 minutes under the new cup record for a ten-mile windward leg she set in Tuesday's contest.

The course was the same as Tuesday. The signals went up on the Wilhelmina at 11:15, setting the course as 10 miles east, 10 miles southwest and thence back to the starting point. The wind had hauled around to the east making the first leg a beat, and the second and third broad reaches.

The breeze was steadily lightening as the starting time approached and at 11·35 had dropped down to about eight knots from 14 a few minutes before.

READY FOR SIGNAL

Endeavour had a double clewed jib sail, her Greta Garbo rig, in stops while Rainbow already had broken out her jib, when the warning signal was set at 11 30. The starting signal was given at 11 40 a m.

Both were tardy crossing the line but Rainbow was the first over and leading by three lengths. She crossed 23 seconds after the signal with Endeavour following 20 seconds later.

Five minutes after the start Rainbow had increased her lead to at least five boat lengths, and was working to weather of the challenger. She was bounding along like a scared rabbit, a plume of white under her bow.

The defender worked so rapidly to weather that at 11.55 she held what appeared to be at least 300 yards advantage over her rival, but Endeavour began to foot better as they settled down for the long beat and at 12 10 appeared to be holding Rainbow.

HARVARD ADDS ARMY ACE TO GRID STAFF

He ostensibly will be the backfield coach of the junior varsity squad under Jimmy Knox, but is due to play a more important part in preparing the Crimson for its big game with the Cadets on November 10.

Harold Cox, former Carthage lineman, was appointed line coach for the jayvees.

As the varsity engaged in its second scrimmage of the week this morning, a 138 pound bunch of stringy muscle and concentrated dynamite, Billy Parquette, former Salem High signal caller, popped to the fore as a very serious contender for the varsity quarterback job.

Parquette scored the varsity's only touchdown against the jayvees on a four yard plunge through the right side of the line that lifted giant linesmen twice his size and dropped them completely out of the picture.

That might have been an accident. But there was nothing questionable about his bullet passes, and his ability to fire a sluggish varsity in a steady march, which carried 70 yards down the field without a break.

Strange to say, Bob Haley, the only veteran quarterback on the squad, was forced to take third honors in the scrimmage as George Hedblom, the 1933 freshman barker, made a very spectacular bid with an exhibiton of excellent blocking.

The Crimson squad is due for a shakeup on Monday as a result of the morning's action, with at least a half dozen athletes, now claiming varsity rating, listed for a drop to the jayvees.

The latest bit of ill fortune has robbed the Crimson eleven of its captain, Herman Gundlach, the regular right guard since his first game as a sophomore in 1932.

Gundlach suffered a leg injury in the opening scrimmage on Thursday. Today Dr. Gus Thorndike has diagnosed the injury as serious enough to keep the Crimson leader out of Harvard's first game on October 6.

Turnesa's Total of 141 Leads Eastern Open

By Bill Grimes

Sandy Burr Country Club, Sept. 22—Joe Turnesa of Elmsford, N. Y., stepped into the lead in the eastern open golf championship here today by carding a 68 in his second round for a 36-hole total of 141. Carl Nettelbladt of Worcester, Runaway Brook Golf Club pro, had another 68 in the second round, for a 36-hole mark of 143. This left him tied with Clarence Clark of Bloomfield, N. J., who added a 73 today to his 70 of yesterday.

Dave Hackney of Vesper turned in a neat 76 today, one more than his 75 of yesterday to give him a 36-hole mark of 146 for fourth place among the early finishers.

Alex Briggs of Oak Hill had three consecutive deuces on the way out in a remarkable streak, but finished with a mediocre 79. Briggs birdied the third, had an eagle on the fourth and a birdie at the fifth on his string.

Nettelbladt on his great round started off with a four. He was hole high in two, chipped on and was down with one putt. His second shot was trapped at the 2nd but he was on in three and took two putts for a five.

At the 3d he took three putts to get down from the back edge of the green for a four. On the 4th he missed an eight-footer for a birdie and took a four. He was hole high to the left of the green with his tee shot on the 5th, but chipped on and was down in one for a three.

On the 6th, 7th and 8th he was on in two and down in two for regulation fours and sank a 15-footer for a three at the 9th. He dropped a 20-footer for a deuce at the 10th.

A pushed No. 6 iron second at the 11th left him a short chip on, and he missed an eight-footer to be down in five. He parred the 12th with a four, and threed the 13th, being hole high and taking a chip and short putt to get down.

A regulation four followed at the 14th, and a three at the 15th, where he sank a three-footer. A four came at the 16th, but he missed a six footer and took a five at the 17th. A birdie three at the 18th concluded the round.

Nettelbladt's card:

Out ...... 4 5 4 4 3 4 4 4 3—35
In .... 2 5 4 3 4 3 5 4 3—33—68

Tom Howe of the Wellesley Country Club, assistant to his father, who is the club pro, came back in 32 today with the lowest inward nine score of the tourney. He took a 71 which with his 77 of yesterday gave him a 148 total.

NEW GRID STARS TO GIVE PURDUE 'BIG' SEASON

By Leo Fischer

International News Service Sports Writer

Lafayette, Ind., Sept 22—Purdue has lost 20 of its last season's 30 letter men.

The team hasn't a single experienced fullback.

The schedule is one of the toughest that any Big Ten team has to face this year.

They've got 'em again.

We aren't predicting that Purdue will win a big ten championship, although it shouldn't be the toughest thing in the world with a conference card that finds only Chicago, Wisconsin, Iowa and Indiana willing to play the boilermakers. But we do say, it will be one of the best teams in the country, and if by some chance it should go through its schedule undefeated, its claim for national honors will be hard to dispute.

The biggest obstacle Purdue has to overcome is the mental attitude of the players which for the past few seasons has brought on an unexpected defeat or tie to spoil an otherwise splendid record.

However, we are not here to discuss mental attitudes, and so we'll give you a look in on the physical side of the situation. It's quite a situation, too, in spite of numerous men who will be in the regular lineup, whose ability to take it must still be proved under fire.

In the backfield, however, Coach Kizer starts with a couple of men whose ability to take it—and give it, too—doesn't need any proving. If you haven't already heard of Duane Purvis and Jim Carter your football education is sadly neglected.

The Man Who Came Back--That's Guy Burt

Guy Burt, Brown University halfback, whose football playing days were declared ended last season by doctors when he fell a victim to the dreaded malta or indulant fever, has confounded medical experts and is again in the thick of the battle for an opening berth when the Bruins open next Saturday against Boston University eleven.

Burt's battle for life won the admiration of the entire state last season. When he contracted the tropical fever, doctors were at a loss for finding a remedy. For three months he effectively blocked off all efforts of the grim reaper to bring him down.

Finally, aided by three blood transfusions, willingly given by teammates, he started on the long road to recovery.

Weighing 170 pounds when stricken, he wasted away to a mere 131. In January this year Brown University honored the gritty halfback by sending him to Florida to reap the benefits of the sun.

He was accompanied by Dr. Orland Smith, all-America tackle on the great Iron Man eleven in 1926. Smith watched over Burt night and day, and finally his labors bore fruit.

But, the man who was thought to be all through on the gridiron, is now the key man in the McLaughry scheme of attack, and the canny Scot believes the gritty halfback is the best blocker he has worked with in years.

Mal Ball, Bruin end in 1932, who left the gridiron for the cheers of Hollywood in 1933, is back with the team and is certain of winning a starting berth. Ball is the best wingman McLaughry has had since Thurt Towle graduated.

Gibby Morgan, promising Springfield halfback, who made his mark as a sophomore last season, has abandoned football upon the advice of the college physician.

The decision to let him rest a year is a hard blow for McLaughry, who has lost Pollard, Buonanno, Hart and Spinney from the ball carrying ranks.

Mr. Boston Says:—

Garden-Bruin Deal
New York Meeting
Browning in Training

By Jack Conway

SPEAKING OF news: Col John Hammond, Major James Imprie and George Funk, representing the Boston Garden, were to sit down with Charles F. Adams, owner of the Bruins, in New York today in an effort to settle the question of rental.

The Garden has been asking $80,000 a year from the Bruins, while Adams and Ross have been offering $50,000.

Mr. Boston

During its first five years at the Garden, the Bruins paid $100,000 a year. Last season under a 25 per cent arrangement the Bruins' rental amounted to $45,000.

George V. Brown, General Manager of the Garden, says it is necessary to charge off $10,000 a year for depreciation of the ice plant at the North Station sports palace. He says hockey gets most of the benefit from this plant, and must pay the freight.

Denies Bruins for Sale

CHARLES F. Adams has denied the report that the Bruins are for sale.

The Garden management says it has been approached by a Boston group which is interested in purchasing the Bruins or obtaining some other hockey franchise in this city.

Adams has all rights to organized hockey here, and no other National League club can come into this territory without his consent. If he wished, Adams could place two major league clubs in the field, but has felt that the city is not able to support two teams.

Despite the strong statements which are being issued by the Garden and the Bruins, I still believe the two factions will get together and sign a new lease. The Garden needs the Bruins, while the latter need the Garden.

There is too much money involved on both sides for there to be a deadlock.

Talk that the Garden would like to break with the Bruins so as to have more dates for dog racing is silly. If dog racing goes into the Garden, there will be two meetings.

One will take place in the Spring after the hockey season closes, while the other will be dropped in at the Garden in the fall.

Browning Opens Training

JIM BROWNING has opened his local training camp at Jerry Buckley's Gym on Friend street.

"I expect to win from Ed Don George in our title bout at the Garden on Friday night", said Browning. "I shall then be ready to meet Jim Londos in a return bout in New York.

"I was glad Londos licked Strangler Lewis in Chicago. I have already defeated Lewis, and am anxious to add Londos to my list of victims.

"For the next few days I shall devote all of my attention to getting ready for George. I must lick Ed before I can consider tackling Londos again."

ERNIE DUSEK, Nebraska Wildman, will have Casey Kazanjian as an opponent in the semi-final. This should develop into a torrid scrap.

South Boston Boxing

SOUTH BOSTON will have plenty of boxing during the coming fall and winter. The Irish-American A. C. will resume staging amateur boxing each Thursday night, while the Glover A. C. will promote professional shows at the Irish-American A. C.'s clubhouse each Monday night.

* * *

BOB "BIBBER" McCoy of Cambridge will have Al Mercier of Springfield as an opponent in the feature bout at Alex MacLean's wrestling show at the Arena on next Wednesday night. It is expected that McCoy will enter the ring a favorite.

DECORATE WINS FOR TALENT IN OPENER

By Dave Egan

Rockingham Park, N. H., Sept. 22—Once again, the poor luck of Lou Smith, who can't seem to outguess the weather man, continued this afternoon, when gray, morose clouds banked the track and put up a threat of rain.

Despite the fact, a crowd that must have numbered 20,000 crammed the spot and roared in high gavor when the peepul's choice in the first race, Decorate, won by three solid lengths of open country.

Rosepath, the highly-touted horse of H. Hatch, was second highest on the mutuel board and was lucky to pull in third hole as the others were closing in fast and Musing, a fairly good shot, beat him out of second position by a nose.

LONG SHOT COPS

There was a startling reversal of form in the second, when Bill Gallaghers's Paddock, a 10-1 shot, won by a length over Trigling, who in turn, was a head over the favorite, P. D. Wats' Traffic Judge.

Paddock had done nothing his last half four races, and his only victory this year was scored over a cheap field at Narragansett last month. But yesterday, the seven year old veteran of the track moved out front from the barrier and fought off the desperate efforts of Trigling and Traffic Judge to dislodge him.

ANOTHER OUTSIDER WINS

It seemed to be the day for 10-1 shots, for in the third, H. C. Hatch's Churchcall, with S. Young up, won by a nose and paid $23 90 in the bargain, which was not such a bad bargain at that.

It was a twelve hose field, and the starter had no end of trouble in sending them off. When he did, Palasa was the favorite at 7-2 but once more, the favorite had plenty of dust and dirt kicked in her face.

J. B. Miller's Unlawful went out from the pack, with Lovito second and Churchcall third. Unlawful led to the head of the stretch, but she weakened gradually as they flew towards home. Churchcall on the other hand, had plenty of late speed, and nipped Unlawful by a nose. Charlie Dawn finished in the show position.

David Prouty High Favorite in Meet

Amherst, Sept. 22—David Prouty High of Spencer was the favorite to win Massachusetts State annual track and field small high school meet, to be held here this afternoon.

Turners Fall High, defending champion, is ineligible, since its enrollment has mounted over 500 in the past year.

TERRIERS TAKE ON FRESHMEN

Coach Pat Hanley was to send his Boston University varsity eleven into action behind closed gates against the freshmen this afternoon with orders to "shoot the works."

The varsity planned to use every play in its repertoire, and the ones that work best will be used against Brown at Providence next Saturday.

Particular stress will be given to passing as this has been the varsity's weak spot to date and Coach Hanley has hopes that under pressure his passers may come through.

The newly shifted frontier wall will start the battle. Elmer Bussell will be at center. He will be flanked by Captain George Abodeely and Charles Gubellini. The tackles will be Fred Nichols and Brony Kastantin, and the ends, Dick Van Iderstine and Frank Hughes.

GYPSIE CHIEF IS PICKED TO WIN THIRD RACE

back to his last race in order to enter the winner's circle in the five furlongs of the first race here on Monday afternoon.

Last week at Aqueduct the son of Peter Hastings drubbed a field of fourteen juveniles over the five furlong rout with ease. Tomorrow the ex-Damon Runyon colorbearer will be meeting the same sort of opposition and needs only intelligent handling in order to earn brackets.

BOBBY BUXTON, WILD PIGEON, RIVER ROSE

FIRST RACE. Two-year-olds, claiming, $800, five furlongs.

4	Bobby Buxton	113	King	5-2
11	Wild Pigeon	x113	Peters	5-2
7	River Rose	107	Rose	8-1
1	Lord Autumn	104	Saunders	4-1
10	Wittekind	108	Robertson	6-1
9	Lady Adair	x100	Lynch	6-1
2	Radiator	104	Sage	15-1
3	Pokaway	111	Young	15-1
4	Lucky Buck	104	Porter	15-1
5	Miss Boss	107	Corbett	15-1
6	Strange Times	104	Chanove	20-1

If anything upsets my dope and drubs BOBBY BUXTON in this affair it will likely be WILD PIGEON. The latter has drawn an outside post position and should escape early interference. RIVER ROSE displayed a high turn of speed in her last two outings and is entitled to some consideration.

GYPSIE CHIEF, TODY WEST, STRENUOUS

SECOND RACE—Three year-olds and up, claiming, $800, five furlongs.

5	Gypsy Chief	113	Faston	5-1
4	Tody West	x103	Rosengarten	5-1
9	Strenuous	x113	King	5-2
7	Happy Scot	x113	Peters	5-2
1	Monks Star	110	Vail	8-1
8	Cancel	x108	Lynch	5-1
3	Hair Trigger	111	Haines	20-1
6	Bryn Athyn	110	Robertson	20-1
2	Barn Dance	x108	Pikor	20-1

GYPSIE CHIEF has been away from the races since last winter, but clockers report him fit to run for a king's ransom. The O. L. Foster color-bearer was capable of taking the top on most of the cheap sprinters at the Houston, Texas meeting. Providing he retains that early dash, he should never leave this issue in doubt. TODY WEST is from a betting outfit and is much better than her efforts in this sector shows. Mayhap that the daughter of Westwick will come up a good thing. STRENUOUS is back in top form and is not out of it by any means.

BEDIGHT, MARCH STEP, MOANE KEALA

THIRD RACE—Three-year-olds and up, claiming, $1000, six furlongs:

5	Bedight	x109	Peters	2-1
4	Marchstep	x114	King	5-2
1	Moane Keala	x99	Rosengarten	5-1
2	Miss Morocco	108	Landolt	5-1
3	Canterstine	x102	Helm	10-1
6	Red Badge	x102	Lynch	10-1

BEDIGHT is clearly the speed of this lot and is fully capable of making every pole of the six furlongs journey a winning one. The distance is a bit further than the dress parade gelding has been asked to travel in recent efforts, but is not beyond his staying powers. MARCH STEP has the faculty of hopping up every now and then with a corking race. Earlier in the meeting he turned in one of his best races to defeat Blue Day and others over this same route. MOANE KEALA chanted hands after she placed to Miss Morocco the other day, but that should not stop her from saving the short end of the spoils. With better handling, she would have won that last start.

ALBERQUERQUE, CURRANTS, SAND CLOUD

FOURTH RACE—The Form Handicap, two-year-olds, $1200, six furlongs.

5	Albuquerque	110	Corbett	5-2
3	Currants	109	Robertson	4-1
5	Sand Cloud	107	Peters	5-2
4	Cloud Sweeper	111	Rosengarten	4-1
6	High Image	105	King	10-1
7	Happy Helen	105	Saunders	15-1
2	Backbirder	110	Porter	6-1
1	Right Rank	100	Pikor	20-1

ALBERQUERQUE's last race was not to the hickory and may be tossed into discard. The son of Monk's Way is capable of much better things, as his past performances will attest. Tomorrow he has drawn an outside post position and should be on the front end throughout.

CURRANTS' recent races have been hard to understand. Over at Narragansett, the Greentree juvenile was one of the best thoroughbreds of his age. Mayhap, the son of Dominant will come to life. SAND CLOUD is a greatly improved juvenile, but I don't believe that he is capable of mastering the top pair, especially when they are in a running mood.

SLIPPER KING, JESTING, BALIOS

FIFTH RACE

4	Slipper King	103	Porter	3-1
3	Jesting	x105	Peters	2-1
2	Balios	x109	Lynch	3-1
1	Instigator	x110	King	8-1
5	Red Jug	x98	Rosengarten	6-1

SLIPPER KING was the victim of a poorly judged ride when he finished third behind Hickory Lad and Jesting the other day. M. Peters made the mistake of letting the Infinite colt drop too far out of contention. With more energetic handling during the early stages of this affair, he should reverse the tables on JESTING. The latter was not headed until the final strides by Hickory Lad and figures strictly the one to drub. BALIOS has been freshened up since his efforts of earlier in the meeting and may go well.

ON SIR, LAMPORTE, ALCORAH

1	On Sir	x108	King	5-2
3	Lamporte	x108	Pikor	5-2
7	Alcorah	107	Munden	4-1
8	My Kentucky	x112	Peters	4-1
5	Pompohone	x103	Helm	15-1
2	Little Wing	x109	Lynch	15-1
4	Sisko	x105	Rosengarten	15-1

ON SIR is a slated starter on todays' card, but if sent back he should experience little difficulty in handling this lot. A repetition of his second to Bert John is all tha is needed. LAMPORTE hung a nose decision on Alcorah the other day and looks fully capable of repeating the trick. The latter is back in top form and should be in the thick of contention throughout.

HASTY PETER, GLORITONE, PASS.

2	Hasty Peter	111	Porter	4-1
5	Gloriton	108	Robertson	8-1
6	Pass	x104	Lynch	4-1
3	Polly Cee	x101	Peters	4-1
7	Ukraine	x103	King	4-1
4	Blind Brook	105	Vail	6-1
1	How High	115	Saunders	8-1

HASTY PETER displayed a dislike for the slow going that prevailed in his last start and that effort may be disregarded. Prior to that race, the son of Peter Hastings ran a corking race to place to Lauretta Nash. GLORITONE'S last race was in the nature of a tightener and should have put the son of The Porter right on edge. On best form, the Donohue color-bearer is capable of furnishing the top one with plenty of trouble. PASS has a victory over Plumage to recommend him for the short end.

Babe Ruth Slated to Manage Nats Is Report

By Bill Corum

Newport, R. I., Sept. 22—Louis Sobol, the stay out late of our happy editorial family, writes in the newspaper as follows:

"Perhaps it's much too early to tell it—but Babe Ruth is practically set to manage the Washington Senators next season."

Lou, have you been hanging around those has ball parks in my absence? Yeah, and probably eating hot dogs and peanuts, drinking beer out of bottles and going on the loose in general?

Haven't I warned you over and over about the danger of going out into that horrible fresh air at your time of life?

Well, if I come home and find you laid up with sunstroke from sitting in the grandstand, don't expect any sympathy from me.

You may be right about Babe Ruth going to Washington to pilot the Senators. You might be right if you wrote that he was going to be sent as ambassador to the Court of St James, in the hope of inducing the English to give up cricket for baseball.

This is a cockeyed world we live in. If it wasn't, nobody would pay you and me to conjecture in print where Babe Ruth was going, or whether Dottie Delight has as many dimples in her knees as Ann Pennington had in her prime.

One of the weaknesses of our business is that it offers such an easy invitation to outsmart yourself, with or without cause. It is so easy to say, "hohoho, that's rich."

Remember how the boys said that when it was first suggested that the Columbia University football team go West to meet Stanford in the Rose Bowl?

Hohoho, that was indeed rich. But, as it turned out, not for Stanford.

THOSE WRITERS ARE SMART

Once I was at a luncheon to a group of sports writers in Sarasota, Fla., just prior to the boom, when a Chicago realty firm had arranged to give each guest a small lot in a development it was planning.

It was a publicity and advertising stunt, of course. But it was legitimate, and there was positively no payment of any kind to make. The real estate company was even going to pay the taxes for one year.

But the sports writers, suffering from the misapprehension that he was going to try and sell them something, razzed and heckled the speaker who was trying to give them the lots so severely that he finally sat down through sheer embarrassment. Nobody got a lot.

Two years later lots in that development were selling at anywhere from $2500 to $10,000. Of course, another five years and they were back selling for $10 a copy again. Which doesn't change the fact that the incident always has seemed to me the perfect illustration of how easy it is to be oversmart.

Thus, my dear Louis the 42nd street, I do not say "Hohoho, that's rich" when I read what you have to say about the old king of klout falling back on the banks of the Potomac for his last stand.

BIG-HEARTED GRIFF

The truth is that I haven[illegible] the slightest idea of w[illegible] Babe Ruth will go after his d[illegible] a regular in the Yankee S[illegible] to-morrow. Or whet[illegible] go any where. The [illegible] are that he will no[illegible]

But one or two pert[illegible] questions come up in [illegible] with his going to Wash[illegible], only one of which needs concern us here which is as follows viz, and to-wit:

WHAT WOULD CLARK GRIFFITHS USE FOR MONEY?

Mr. Griffith, Mr. Dear Louis the 42nd street, is the owner president of the Washington Senators.

Mr. Griffith is a stocky, graying, slightly pepperish gentleman who will give you a small apple for a large jug of cider at practically any given moment.

So that when he starts any $30,000 a year baseball salaries I want to be present when he writes out the semi-monthly pay checks just to see the look of arguish in his eyes.

It is almost a moral certainty that Mr. Griffith would be delighted to welcome our George as pilot of the Senators. This for two good reasons. He can use a manager, and he could use our George, in any capacity, at the gate.

RUTH RATES IT

But of all the cities in the American League, saving St. Louis, it seems to me that Washington would be least able to meet even what our George would consider moderate salary demands.

In Washington, Mr. Griffith has been accustomed to get a star player and manager at, let us say, an average of $12,000 a season.

It would be good news from one standpoint if true, however, Louie. Ruth rates a manager's job.

Unfortunately the situation is further complicated by the persistent report that Mr. Joe Cronin, current boss of the Senators, is fixing to marry Mr. Griffith's niece this fall. In which case it would seem something less than generous for Mr. G. to give him less than one more year at the helm of the Senators for a wedding present.

Anyhow, my dear Louie, please understand that I am not denying your story. I am only discussing it with you.

Shields Eliminated

Los Angeles, Sept. 22—Frank Shields, nation's No. 1 player, was eliminated by John Van Ryn in the quarter-finals of the Pacific Southwest tennis championships.

RAIL DEBTS ARE BASIS FOR ARGUMENT

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

The chiding of railroad leaders by certain government officials has touched off what promises to be a splendid argument. The particular shaft which struck a decidedly tender spot is that directed at the funded debt of railways. First off the editor of Railway Age replies that while capital investment of the railways was increasing eight and one-quarter billion between 1916 and 1932 funded debt was increasing less than two billions. Next he points out that while railway financing in normal times constitutes a large part of the total operations in the investment market it is mainly for refinancing and refunding.

In order to top the entire argument with the proper touch the editor of Railway Age reminds readers that the increase in funded debt of railroads is largely the responsibility of government. In the first place government operation of railways during the war years left the carriers with an increased debt of one and one-half billions of dollars. Three-fourths of the debt increase from 1916 to 1932. Add expenditures forced by government orders for elimination of grade crossings and automatic train control and the total increase in railway funded debt is more than accounted for, and responsibility is the sole possession of government.

Notes: The only fault we have with the above is that it travels to specialized readers . . . Those whose business is railroading . . . Or, when picked up as it is here, to the financially minded . . . The field is not broad enough . . . Voting majorities lie elsewhere . . . It is too bad the case is not presented to them in order that both sides of the argument may be weighed . . . But perhaps the happier tape action of carrier shares of late holds promise that top flight political chieftains are viewing the problems of rail leaders in a more friendly way.

Technical stock market action is daily offering additional hope for the bull cause. The zigzag downward movement since July, composed of sharp dips followed by half way recoveries, resulted in downtrend lines on the charts. These are developed by drawing a line down across the tops of the recoveries. At each approach since early summer hopes ran high that prices would break through. Up until this week bullishness flickered out on each occasion and new lows resulted. On the writer's personal average the downtrend line has been broken.

Briefs: Many individual shares have yet to break their downtrend lines . . . But the market rarely gets under way as a unit . . . We will be happy if our average stays above the line by a half point or so for two or three sessions . . . Then reacts down to it and possibly slightly under . . . Also Air Reduction is flirting with a bear line of some months' standing . . . Let that be broken and we will be sure that all is prepared for a good upswing . . . And it looks favorable.

* * *

The blues singers, that we so fortunately discussed early this week when the skys seemed so overcast, are confronted by the market and seeking possible excuses. But our real point is the current bulletin of the American Institute of Finance. In one paragraph alone there is enough food for thought to last a pessimist some time. A period of activity comparable to that of 1933-34 is visioned. Because of sustained retail buying in the face of production contraction, together with a probable increase in government expenditures.

* * *

Comment: The writer enjoys that paragraph noted above . . . It is a crystal clear view unclouded by weird imaginings of what might happen . . . Talk of a central Bank of Issue is making people inflation conscious again . . . The thing to remember in connection with credit inflation is that Central Bank or not it is coming in the opinion of many competent judges . . . Bank reserves simply cannot be bloated forever . . . Sooner or later it will take hold and provide another boom such as the late 20's witnessed.

Bar Gold Lower

London, Sept. 22 (AP)—Bar gold declined 1½ pence to 140s 10d. (U. S. equivalent $35.17 on basis of sterling opening at $4.99½).

Wall St. Traders More Confident As Prices Rise

By WALL STREET SPECTATOR

The first few rays of confidence in a long time began to break through the clouds of uncertainty downtown as the market was able to push ahead again.

Traders are still ultra-conservatives, though, and want more activity and some real good news before opening their purse strings. It was interesting to see a number of stocks taken in volume at the offering prices.

After all, the market has been in a downtrend most of the year and no one would begrudge a rise for a while.

That drop of $51,000,000 in brokers loans to a new low for the year was significant, confirming the widely expressed belief in the last week that the market was sold out.

Floor traders say that the short interest is not large except in a few issues like U. S. Steel, but that the bears are scary and are beginning to run.

The disappointing showing of Baltimore & Ohio's earnings this year against 1933 is attributed to heavy maintenance charges. Those who have made comparison say the B. & O. has been spending more than other Eastern carriers.

Brokers, though, say that the rise in the gold shares is due more to the favorable Lake Shores earnings report than to any pending inflationary developments.

BOSTON STOCKS ARE STEADY

Mixed Tone in Quiet Curb Dealings

By Associated Press

New York, Sept. 22—The curb market drifted along in a narrow trading area today with minor fractional changes the general rule in utilities, oil and metals. Some of the volatile specialties moved in a wider range.

Trading was quiet after the first half hour and mostly confined to evening up for the week-end adjournment.

Gains up to ½ point occurred in American Gas, Aluminum Co., National Bellas Hess, Niagara Hudson Power, and Swift & Co. Sherwin Williams advanced more than 2 points, continuing the strong position established in the past two sessions, and Duke Power was more than 3 higher on a small turnover. Columbia Pictures gained around 1½.

Early profit taking or selling for adjustment caused some irregularity in the metal stocks after that group displayed quiet firmness earlier in the week. Pioneer Gold, Teck Hughes and Lake Shore Mines were the principal losers. Hiram Walker, International Petroleum, Cities Service and Creole Petroleum, were among issues slipping fractionally lower. Fajardo Sugar lost 5 points on a small turnover.

Improved Tone Marks Bond Trading

By Associated Press

New York, Sept. 22—The bond market showed a good tone today and in virtually all groups, the advances of the week were well maintained.

U. S. Governments were again a bit mixed, but values were changed but little because of the narrowness of price swings in either direction. A few of the Treasury Loans and Home Owners' Loan 3s edged up 2-32nds to 4-32nds of a point.

Prominent in the low priced group moving forward were some utility and communication issues. American and Foreign Power 5s pushed up 3¼ points to 51¼, while Postal Telegraph 5s sold at 46, up 1¼, and International Telephone 5s at 58, up 1.

Most of the rails held up well, adding small fractions in a majority of cases. The gainers included some obligations of the Alleghany Corp., Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, Pennsylvania and St. Louis-San Francisco. Utility issues were were generally higher, along with some of the trading favorites of the industrial group.

There was little activity in the foreign sector, but the more important trades were effected at higher prices, particularly in Italy 7s, Poland 7s, Austrian 7s, and Australia 5s.

REPORT GIVES FACTS ON WAR DEBTS

By MERRYLE RUKEYSER

Copyright, 1934, by Universal Service, Inc.

New York, Sept. 21—George N. Peek's newest report on international capital movements suggests how Europe exchanged her questionable notes for our premier industrial securities.

Because of the absence of adequate countrywide bookkeeping, we as a people had no accurate knowledge of what happened to the bounteous capital advances which we made to Europe after the war.

Supposedly we were making advances to feed the hungry overseas and to rehabilitate the war torn areas. In our innocence, we little realized that between 1923 and 1923 the foreigners who in those years went into our debt to the tune of more than $7,000,000,000, were accumulating $4,500,000,000 of American securities—becoming in a sense absent owners and using our own loans as capital to buy into our enterprises.

From a practical standpoint, there are two inferences to be drawn from Mr. Peek's new computations.

First, there are still substantial foreign holdings of American securities, which can be used in liquidation of the war debt. If such foreign holdings were mobilized the foreign governments could thus get dollars for debt payment, and could reimburse their nationals in their home currency, thus obviating the insoluble transfer problem.

Second, this net outcome of the foreign landing experiment shows the tangments into which our money and credit system can lead us. The Federal Reserve System in effect doubled the expansibility of bank credit in relation to gold, but its sponsors hoped that the expansion and contraction of currency would take place in accordance with the needs of domestic commerce and agriculture. It used to be supposed that there were automatic checks on the flow of funds. But the lending adventure demonstrated that there is no such control, and that in fact the credit system under which the circulating medium was based on bank deposits, accelerated unsound capital movements.

Mr. Peek has wisely recommended that this country take an inventory of its foreign debits and credits. This suggestion had already been made in this column.

Mr. Peek's view is that in international trade and finance, the United States should act in accordance with its own interest. That sounds like a truism, but in the past no adequate books were kept to enable the carrying out of such an objective.

In the mad drive for foreign trade volume, goods were sold abroad without regard to the capacity of purchasers to pay for them.

Mr. Peek's emphasis on adequate international bookkeeping is having a profound effect on important officials in the administration, from the President down.

Even Secretary of State Cordell Hull, who used to talk the language of free trade, is recognizing the importance of exchanging goods for goods.

Stock Market Time Table

10-11—Shares were higher in first hour dealings. Steels were in good demand. Farm implement issues showed gains. Rails and motors firm. Volume moderate with sales running 150,000 shares.

11-12—Profit taking appeared at the start of the last hour and gains were cut down fractionally. Farm implement shares held. Closing tone was steady. Sales were estimated at 280,000 shares.

UTILITY SHARES FEATURE DULL MARKET

The demand for the utility shares was apparent right from the start and lifted such issues as Consolidated Gas, Columbia Gas, American Water Works, and Public Service of N. J. to their best levels in a month. Buying in the power and light shares was stimulated by the reports that the P. W. A. would curtail its loans to municipal utility plants apparently as a result of the recent adverse court decision on the matter.

RAILS QUIET N

Railroad shares which had been the particular favorites of traders over the past week quieted down considerably today, and while the undertone in the group was strong, little further headway was made on the upside.

Trading was considerably slower today than yesterday apparently indicating that traders while not disposed to take on any further trading lines were also disinclined to dispose of stocks and take profits at this stage of the recovery.

There was little to feature the motor shares.

The commodity markets were quiet.

TRADE REPORTS

Although trade reports aroused more hope for a seasonal upturn of fair proportions, the business picture was still a mixed one.

In contrast with the seasonal advance in carloadings last week, automobile production has been tapering off further and retail sales have been slackening. Cram's reports estimated automobile output this week totaled 38,329 units, a decrease of 4,631 from the preceding week and 9,320 below that of the corresponding week last year.

August building figures were encouraging. The F. W. Dodge Corp. reported contracts awarded during the month totaled $120,244,600 against $119,698,800 in July and $106,131,100 in August, 1933. For the first eight months of this year contracts awarded exceeded $1,000,000,000 compared with $620,937,600 in the like period last year.

Termination of the textile strike was expected to act as a stimulus to business activity. In New England, particularly, the tieup of textile mills and idleness of thousands of workers were reported to have retarded retail trade.

A report that federal reserve governors, in conference with the Federal Reserve Board, had begun a study of ways to speed up credit expansion interested Wall Street in view of the steady gains in outstanding commercial bank credit the last eight weeks.

Improvement Seen in C. & O. Earnings

The Chesapeake & Ohio Railway's earnings in the fourth quarter of this year will better those for the third quarter and there never has been any doubt but that the common dividend for the full year would be safely earned, President J. J. Bernet stated.

Relief Problem Seen as Permanent

Poland Spring, Maine, Sept. 22—Declaring that the question of unemployment relief must be considered as a continuing rather than as a passing emergency problem, Chairman John F. Tinsley of the Community Development Committee of the New England Council today told the Council in session here that New England communities "must find new ways of dealing with the problem."

"The New England Council's Community Development Committee says this in no critical spirit, but merely to emphasize its belief that the whole question must be faced anew, and permanent rather than emergency solutions developed."

"One of the greatest factors in holding New England credit on a stable basis during the past three years has been the retrenchment that has taken place in municipal, county and state government," Mr. Tinsley said. "It is very important during the next few years that the progress that has been made in this field be preserved and we urge the business interests of every municipality to continue research and fact-finding through taxpayers' associations, research bureaus and tax committees of Chambers of Commerce and similar organizations as a means of placing government on a more business-like basis so far as efficiency and economy are concerned.

"When we realize that during the past three years more than 2000 government units such as municipal, county, states, and school districts, throughout the United States have defaulted on either interest or principal of their obligations and that only four of these defaults have occurred in all six of the New England states, it is easy to understand that a worth while job has been done. I believe, in this connection, that great credit should be given to public officials as well as to our research bureaus and taxpayers' associations for making this enviable record possible."

Referring again to unemployment relief, Mr. Tinsley said that "there is every indication that the relief burden will be as great and the problem as serious in 1934-35 as it has been in 1933-34. Communities will, therefore, through necessity have to safeguard themselves by making sure that sufficient appropriations are placed in the 1933 budget to cover the relief expenditures. Refusal to face the facts that exist when appropriations are made will only necessitate supplementary budgets and fictitious tax rates.

"This Committee, therefore, urges all New England communities to keep other departmental expenditures down to the lowest possible figure as a means of keeping the tax rate more in line with the reduced ability of the people to pay. The committee urges that all chambers of commerce, taxpayers' associations and research bureaus immediately study relief administration from a permanent rather than a temporary viewpoint.

"Real savings in public expenditures in the next few years can be made by applying study and thought to the problem of unemployment and placing relief administration on a more economic and efficient basis."

CANNING CO. IN NEW PLAN

The announcement is made that the Metal Package Corporation, the third largest manufacturer of cans in this country, has entered into a co-operative arrangement with the National Can Company of Boston.

David Stern, general manager of the National Can Company, in confirming the above, says:

"This new business alignment is an important step forward for both the National Can Company and the Metal Package Corporation. For 33 years the National Can Company has led in can production in New England.

"Under this new business alignment, our company will continue serving the New England territory. There will be no change whatever in management or personnel. The Metal Package Corporation has plants in Brooklyn, N. Y.; Maspeth, N. Y.; Baltimore, Md.; Hamilton, O., and Chicago, so that this will be their sixth plant. We anticipate that this new alliance will effect a materially larger volume of business."

American Trustee Share Corp. Files

The American Trustee Share Corp., a wholly owned subsidiary of Massachusetts Distributors Incorporated has filed a registration statement with the Federal Trade Commission covering a new issue of 650,000 shares of Diversified Trustee Shares, Series D.

The registration of this new issue was made necessary by reason of the fact that the previous allotment has been entirely sold. More than eight million dollars worth of these shares are outstanding at the present time.

Higher Hog Prices Expected

Hog prices during the marketing season this winter are expected to average substantially higher than prices last winter, in view of the prospective smaller slaughter supply, says the Bureau of Agricultural Economics in its current report on world hog and pork prospects.

The pronounced advance in hog prices which occurred in August is attributed chiefly to the larger than usual seasonal reduction in hog slaughter, with prices at the end of the month the highest in more than three years. Some seasonal decline in prices from the relatively high levels in early September is expected during the next few months.

Feed prices in both domestic and foreign markets are relatively high compared with hog prices, despite the rise in hog prices in recent weeks, says the bureau. The relationship between hog prices and feed prices in most countries has been unfavorable for hog production during most of the current year, and the bureau considers a further contraction in both domestic and foreign hog production as "not unlikely."

American Gas Earnings

American Gas & Electric Co. earned about $4,600,000 for its common in eight months ended August 31, or about $1.02 a share on 4,482,742 shares outstanding at end of that period. This contrasted with around $4,750,000, or $1.10, on 4,313,402 shares a year before.

Report for 12 months ended August 31 probably will show about $7,500,000 available for the common, or about $1.67 a share, against $7,850,391, or $1.82 a share for 12 months ended Aug. 31, 1933. This year's smaller balance for the common is after a depreciation allowance of roughly 750,000 more than corresponding 1933 period; on a comparable reserves basis results for 12 months ended August, this year, would have been better than last year's by about $450,000, although general operating expenses were up over $3,000,000.

"MOP" Business Better

During September the Missouri Pacific's business has run about 6 per cent ahead of a year ago, or approximately at the same rate it has run for the year to date, said President L. W. Baldwin.

Mr. Baldwin expects that the road's business will carry through to the end of the year at the same rate.

Langendorf Bakeries Pays

Langenford United Bakeries, Inc., declared a dividend of 25 cents on the Class A. stock, payable October 15 to stock of record September 30. Payment will leave arrearage of $2 a share in accumulated dividends.

LEATHER TRADE IS DULL

Leather buyers in general are not displaying a great deal of interest in the market at the present writing. Majority are committed to a policy of watching and waiting for future developments which may affect supplies and price trends.

What effect the latest decision of the government with regard to drought hides disposal will have on the leather situation, can only be conjectured, says Shoe and Leather Reporter.

Shoe buying and production are at a low ebb at the present writing. Manufacturers are operating factories in a spotty manner and can see but little cutting ahead of them. Plans are now being formulated for the showing of new Spring styles and reactions of buyers to the new offerings are anxiously awaited. Price trends and style trends remain to be clarified.

Canadian Power Output Is Higher

Output of central electric stations in Canada during August totaled 1,658,742,000 k. w. h., according to Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

Daily average in August of 53,508,000 k. w. h. showed an increase of 2.3 per cent over the July daily average, but was below the average of the previous six months. Exports increased to 115,988,000 k. w. h. in August from 105,866,000 in July and deliveries to electric boilers to 351,103,000 k. w. h. from 342,658,000 k. w. h.

FREE COOKING SCHOOL OPENS ON TUESDAY

To promote better cookery, The Boston Evening American and The Boston Sunday Advertiser are offering a great home-making week to their women readers.

Beginning next Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, an interesting and valuable series of talks will be offered. The series will be in The American-Advertiser Free Cooking School for women, young and old, middle-aged or brides, for mothers of grown-up families, for every woman who cooks, who wants to learn to cook, or who must plan meals for a family of two or 10 or more.

Four days of news on what is new in cookery and homemaking, told by a woman nationally known for her skill in cookery and lecturing, with Martha Lee in attendance as hostess.

NOTED AS LECTURER

Cooking lessons of plain and elaborate cookery will be demonstrated free, of course, to the women who want to step along with the new era of homemaking.

The expert in charge is Mrs. Francis Northcross, whose name is familiar to women everywhere because she is known throughout America as a cookery and homemaking expert. She has lectured before many thousands of women, from the North to the South, in the East and throughout the Middle West and has spoken before women's clubs and other organizations. This is her third year at the Advertiser-American Cooking School.

The daily class sessions to be held in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Bradford will include discussions of new food products, new wares for the dining room table, new ideas for serving, entertaining, planning menus and special occasions.

NEW RECIPES GIVEN

Mrs. Northcross' lecture is only a part of the comprehensive program planned for each day. She will cook right o the platform in the kitchen set up for her use. Recipes for many new dishes will be given away free at each session, and other dishes will be described and their importance and place in the home menu discussed.

Her work in the past years has shown her the importance of economical marketing and cookery, of careful planing and deliberate buying not only of foods but in home furnishings as well. These subjects as well as new ideas in entertaining will be important parts of the daily programs. And always a wealth of new recipes will be available to the women who attend.

These are dishes gleaned from chefs and movie stars, from famous society hostesses and from other sources of new ideas in culinary achievement.

DRIVEN TO SCHOOL

This year, doors will open at 12:30 p. m., with entertainment from 1 to 2 p. m., at which time, the session will begin.

An innovation is provided this year, which will enable all from Metropolitan Boston who attend the school, to ride to the Htel Bradfrd in new Ford cars. Through the cooperation of Metropolitan Ford dealers, this free transportation will be available by simply calling the nearest Ford dealer. A car with driver will come and drive you to the school.

CHURCHES PLAN LOTTERY TEST

New York, Sept. 22—Condemning the proposed municipal lottery as "a measure which would carry incaluable moral costs," the Greater New York Federation of Churches announces it will make a court test if the measure becomes a law.

Decision to make the court test was arrived at after Charles H. Tuttle, the federation's counsel, informed Dr. Charles Trexler, president, that the proposed lottery would constitute a felony under both state and federal statutes.

The federation represents 1100 Protestant churches in the five boroughs, with a membership of 417,000 actual communicants, while twice that number are supporters, the federation said.

Lotteries in the Air

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

The agitation for national lotteries is both for and against. Those opposed say it is a gamble. Those in favor of it say that a gamble is better than no chance for your money at all.

Why not solve the thing by running a race, like the recent Soviet Derby in Moscow? Did you read about that?

The man who bet his dollar on the winner got his dollar back. o mre and no less. He would have been just as well off if he had not bet.

We don't know what happened to the horse. They probably shot him for running in front of the common herd.

DIONNE BABIES RIDE IN AUTO

Callander, Ont., Sept. 21—In the first automobile ride of their 117 days of life, the Dionne quintuplets were removed from the farm home of their parents, where they were born, and rushed to the new hospital built especially for them.

Dr. A. R. Dafoe, fearing they might catch the whooping cough, prevalent in the neighborhood, or contract the more serious colds members of their famil yhave, ordered the move.
